Soviet Press Has Field Day Over Incident

Cartoons Rib U.S.; Details Of Pilot's Capture Disclosed

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet newspapers poured out fresh details Sunday on the capture of pilot Francis G. Powers and ribbed the United States in cartoons for the failure of his acknowledged intelligence flight over Soviet territory.

"Take-off and landing" was the title of a Pravda drawing on the case of the 30-year-old American flier whose high altitude Lockheed U2 jet was downed by a rocket as it sped above the Urals a week ago.

The Communist party newspaper cartoon showed a pilot in two situations: First, flying out with a Pentagon helmet topped by a dollar sign flag, then shaking under guard of Soviet soldiers at a table loaded with a movie camera, packets of money, a dagger and watches confiscated from him.

Trial For Powers Indicated

Soviet readers were given other cartoons and first person stories of the May Day capture of Powers, announced by Premier Nikita Khrushchev Saturday along with a report that he has confessed he was on a spying mission.

Khrushchev, who is to meet with Western Big Three chiefs in the Paris summit conference a week from Monday, indicated Powers will be tried. He also said it might be well to hold a news conference on the case.

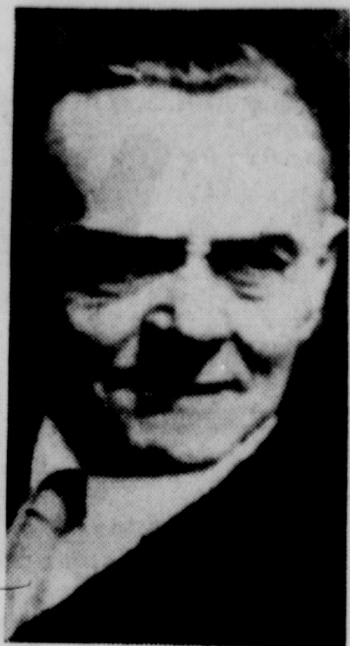

Workers on a state farm near Sverdlovsk, in the central Urals 900 miles east of Moscow, were reported to have made the capture. Soviet newspapers said they rushed to Powers' aid when he parachuted from his falling plane, but turned him over to officers when suspicions were aroused by his equipment.

Weapons, Map, Survival Kit

That equipment, by Soviet account, included a silencer pistol, a dagger, a Russian map, Soviet and foreign money, gold watches and women's gold rings. Powers also was reported carrying a survival kit containing extra clothing, a fishing net, pliers and a sawed knife.

"Our suspicions were more and more confirmed," said Vladimir Surin, a former sergeant. "An enemy was in front of us, an enemy cunning and impudent."

South Africa's Louw Arouses British Storm

LONDON (AP) — South Africa's foreign minister, Eric Louw, got rough handling Sunday from editorial writers in British newspapers. He also got a going over from opposition papers in South Africa. Here and there he was compared to a Nazi diplomat.

Independent, Conservative and Cooperative Labor newspapers were highly critical of Louw's news conference last week during which he said South Africa has no intention of changing its policy of racial segregation.

"London has not seen such a mixture of arrogance and bigotry since Ribbentrop's days as ambassador," said the Cooperative Labor Reynolds News. "We expected nothing different, for it has been obvious for a long time past that this man is one of the most determined and ruthless racists in the South African government."

The Conservative Sunday Dispatch said the honeymoon inside the British Commonwealth is over. "Last week's press conference, at which Mr. Eric Louw revealed his country's racial bigotry in all its brutal ugliness, was the turning point. Up to then there had been a chance that the Commonwealth prime ministers would remain close friends."

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — English-language newspapers critical of the government charged Sunday that Foreign Minister Eric Louw did South Africa much damage by his uncompromising stand for racial segregation at the London Commonwealth prime ministers conference.

Liberals, who had still hoped for some easing of the government's apartheid policies, saw the chances dimmed further by Louw's remarks abroad and sharp speeches by nationalist ministers at home.

"Eric Louw is being deliberately crude," headlined the Sunday Times Express in an editorial commentary that also charged "Louw's acts in London remind one of nothing so much as the deliberate diplomatic crudities of Nazi diplomats just before World War II broke out."

Embarrassed Grandma Trapped In Gents' Room

WEST BROMWICH, England, (AP) — Ethel Cross is as cross as can be. She got locked in a lavatory. She was there from Tuesday to Wednesday and nobody knew she was there.

It was a men's lavatory. And she never did get to see the second half of the soccer match. So she's writing to the directors of the local soccer stadium and sending a bill for 8 pounds 15 shillings ($22.40) damages. This is not to recompense her for the 16 hours she was locked in the toilet when the coin-slot jammed the door.

"It's really for my husband, three sons and a daughter-in-law who each lost a day's wages through taking time off to search for me," explained the 51-year-old grandmother.

It happened when she went to her first soccer match Tuesday to watch her 25-year-old son Leslie

Legislators Ask All Facts About Plane

Reaction Ranges From Concern To So-What Attitude

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. admission that an American spy plane flew into the Soviet Union brought reaction from Congress Sunday ranging from grave concern to a so-what attitude.

There were no ringing demands that Congress do anything except get more details behind closed doors. The view of some members was that it's best for Congress to keep quiet now in the face of a ticklish situation.

Some members, especially Democrats, expressed concern about what effect the affair might have on the East-West summit meeting scheduled to start May 16 in Paris.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he wants to know more about how Francis G. Powers, the captured 30-year-old pilot, happened to fly into the Soviet Union. He said he hopes all government agencies involved "will give a full disclosure of what took place."

Dirksen's View

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois took a different view. He said Saturday's State Department statement was candid in explaining what happened and "I don't think any issue can be taken with it."

Dirksen, like others, said it is "part of reality" that each nation watch out for its own security and keep an eye on any violations of that security. He reiterated, as the State Department had pointed out, that it is normal for all nations, including the Soviet Union, to carry on intelligence activity.

Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, took a similar view.

Red Subs Off U.S. Coasts

"We know that Russia has got spies all over the world," he said, adding, "The West can't afford to fall asleep and it hasn't fallen asleep."

Asserting that the Soviet Union has had submarines off the U. S. and South American coasts, Wiley asked: "What for? We know the Russians, as well as we, don't want a third World War."

The characterization of a grave situation was made by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

"We must understand we are involved in a crisis in the making," he said.

Ike To Visit Rhee While In Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Eisenhower will pay a personal courtesy call on deposed President Syngman Rhee when he visits South Korea June 22, it was learned Sunday.

A revised schedule calls for Eisenhower to visit Rhee and Mrs. Rhee at Pear Blossom Villa, to which the Rhees moved after demonstrations forced the 85-year-old president to resign April 27.

Eisenhower will spend about eight hours in Korea, during which he is expected to confer for about 30 minutes with acting President Huh Chung, address the National Assembly if it has not dissolved itself for new national elections, visit the Rhees and fly to front line areas just north of Seoul for a visit with troops.

play in a local cup match. In the interval she went to the powder room and by mistake walked into one reserved for gentlemen. She closed a door behind her and it jammed. She heard men talking outside the door and was too embarrassed to shout for help.

When her husband got home at 10 p.m. and found she wasn't there, he reported her missing. Police searched the stadium. Even the ladies' powder rooms were checked—but not the gents. Mrs. Cross had lost her voice crying out for help in the empty stadium.

Next morning, her husband organized a family search party. Her 26-year-old son Ray heard a faint cry for help as he looked through the stadium.

When the door to the cubicle was smashed open, Mrs. Cross was safe but tired, cold and very cross.

Boys Rescue Pets From Sewer

West Va. Demo Rivals Continue Bitter Exchange

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) called Sunday for an end to the personal abuse he said is being thrown at him in West Virginia's presidential primary campaign.

Kennedy fired back in a hot statement against the "gutter politics" charges leveled against him, his family and his aides Saturday by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), his opponent in Tuesday's Democratic primary.

"In 14 years of public life, in three campaigns in the House of Representatives and two for the United States Senate, I have never been subjected to such personal abuse," Kennedy said.

"I am puzzled that a candidate no observer thinks can be nominated by the Democratic party should indulge in such tactics. I am saddened that he has chosen this course for his campaign."

Humphrey, a Congregationalist, generally is regarded as having an edge over Kennedy, a Catholic, in this overwhelmingly Protestant state. Kennedy, however, has drilled at the contention that Humphrey has no chance for the nomination.

Humphrey's attack on the tactics of the Kennedy camp was renewed Sunday with a statement by his chief campaign advisor, James Rowe, that the time had come to "blow the whistle on junior." —Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., a Kennedy aide.

Roosevelt stirred up a storm of bitter controversy by saying Humphrey had asked for military service deferments in World War II, when Kennedy commanded a patrol boat sunk by the Japanese. Humphrey explained he was rejected for service because of a hernia condition.

All the political signs pointed toward a close finish as Kennedy and Humphrey carried their popularity contest struggle into its final stages. The outcome is not binding on the states 25-vote convention delegation.

Kennedy insisted he is fighting an uphill battle in which he said he would be lucky to get as much as 45 per cent of Tuesday's vote. Humphrey was confident of victory but made no claims about its size.

Rebel Drive Smashed

ALGIERS (AP) — The French army announced Sunday it has smashed a major rebel effort to penetrate into Algeria from Morocco.

An army spokesman said 120 Algerian nationalist guerrillas were killed or captured south of Am Sefra on the border of the Sahara when they attempted to force the French defense line Saturday. Several hundred others apparently fled toward Morocco under heavy artillery and rocket fire.

Undetected Atomic Shots Held Possible For Several Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the next several years—or until new detection systems can be created—it will be possible to explode "muffled" nuclear shots five times as powerful as the first atomic bombs without discovery.

This estimate came Sunday from the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee in a summary based on testimony of scientists during hearings last month.

The summary was made public a day after President Eisenhower announced a new series, possibly starting before the end of this year, of underground nuclear tests. One major purpose of the new test program is to help develop a detection system. The congressional report was prepared some time before the White House announcement, however.

The report was compiled at the direction of three committee officials — Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM), chairman of the Joint Committee; Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.), chairman of a subcommittee on radiation, and Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.), chairman of the subcommittee on Research and Development.

The testimony included in the summary was produced by a discussion panel of physicists and other scientists, among them Dr. Hans Bethe, Dr. Edward Teller, Dr. Harold Urey and Dr. Alvine C. Graves.

The summary-analysis notes that the United States has conducted no tests since the fall of 1958, and before that only one U.S. underground shot, in 1957, had been conducted which could be used for detection estimates.

The committee hearings were intended to dispel confusing reports and conflicting statements as to technical problems and possibilities, the report said. They covered various proposals, including that originally put forth at Geneva for a system of 180 seismic stations to detect earth-transmitted shocks of explosions and subsequent proposals by a U.S. committee for improvements in the equipment and technique of such a system.

Under the Eisenhower plan announced on Saturday, two experimental seismic stations, one utilizing the Geneva system, the other the improved equipment, will be built. They will be used in checking shots of small nuclear force in a tunnel 1,200 feet below the surface.

NASA said the big transmitter, believed to be the largest ever operated in space, was turned on when the satellite reached 8,001,000 miles from earth at 5 a. m.

NASA Administrator T. Keith Glennan congratulated all concerned and declared: "This is truly an historic event and yet quite in character with the other accomplishments of this amazing spacecraft."

Pioneer V, launched on March 11 from Cape Canaveral, Fla., is a 94.8 pound package now on its first orbit around the sun. Moving about one million miles from earth each week, it has been sending back valuable new space data about cosmic rays, radiation belts and magnetic fields.

Bank Holdup Suspect Seized In S. Carolina

STROUDSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Ralph Castellano, 59, of Little Ferry, N.J., wanted in connection with the $37,000 robbery of a bank near here last Wednesday, was arrested Sunday night in South Carolina, state police and FBI agents reported here.

Authorities here were informed that Castellano, who left with his wife and two children on Friday, was picked up by the South Carolina highway patrol at Crescent Beach, Horry County, and taken to the Nixon Crossroads jail.

Police Seek Girl Feared Abducted

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania State Police said Sunday night they were investigating the disappearance of a 17-year-old girl whose parents told them three young men forced her into an automobile and drove away.

Cpl. James A. Treas of the Gettysburg substation said an all-points bulletin has been sent out in connection with the disappearance Saturday of Jane Frances Cassatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cassatt. The family lives three miles west of Gettysburg. The girl's father gave this account of the disappearance to a newsman:

He and his wife left Jane Frances with her sister, Patricia, 7, while they went on a shopping trip to Gettysburg with another daughter, Audrey, 10.

When they returned, Patricia, in tears, told them Jane Frances was forced into a car by three boys less than 45 minutes before. She said the three drove up in the auto while Jane Frances was taking her for a walk near the house. Patricia said she thought she recognized one of the boys but could not identify him.

Cassatt said Jane Frances, a shoe factory worker, was wearing black pedal-pushers, a pink sweater, and a blue blouse. She is 5-2 and has brown hair and brown eyes.

Time Runs Out In Prosecution Of Nazi Crimes

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The deadline for prosecution of most Nazi crimes expired in half of West Germany Sunday, 15th anniversary of the Allied victory in Europe.

There was some confusion, much criticism and public assurance that most Nazi offenders had been brought to justice. There also was some feverish last-minute court activity.

In Hamburg, the city government said an investigation has been started into the Nazi background of 25 judges, including 15 still in office. Bremen authorities reported the arrest of the state claims officer, Hermann Lumm, suspected of having a part in the slaughter of Jews in the Soviet Ukraine in 1941. In the Ruhr city of Bochum, Heinrich Hamann, a former elite guard captain, was jailed under suspicion of ordering the shooting of 400 Polish Jews.

The statute of limitations for Nazi crimes is based on postwar Allied legislation. As a result, application of the time limit differs according to former zones of occupation. In the four states making up the British zone, the limit ran out Sunday. For three states in the former American zone, the period expires July 1. German officials said there is uncertainty as far as the French zone and Berlin are concerned.

The deadline covers all crimes except premeditated murder, on which the limit runs to 1965.

Truman Marks 76th Birthday

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — Harry S. Truman was 76 years old Sunday.

The former President celebrated by showing the governor of New Jersey through the Truman Library, attending the First Baptist Church here and dining with his sister at home.

He was born May 8, 1884, at Lamar, Mo.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner, New Jersey, viewed the library with Truman Sunday morning. The governor has been called a dark horse candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Under the Eisenhower plan announced on Saturday, two experimental seismic stations, one utilizing the Geneva system, the other the improved equipment, will be built. They will be used in checking shots of small nuclear force in a tunnel 1,200 feet below the surface.

Cheap Power From Atom Fission Still Years Away

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The International Atomic Energy Agency says power from nuclear fission—splitting of the atom—will become increasingly practical in the next few years.

But power from thermonuclear fusion is reported still far away. That's one way of saying it will take a long time to harness the energy of the hydrogen bomb for peaceful uses.

The agency, based in Vienna and affiliated with the United Nations, presents these judgments in an appraisal of its 1959-1964 program. The appraisal was prepared at the request of the U.N. Economic and Social Council.

The agency said plants using heat from nuclear fission to make steam for the generation of electricity now cost much more to build than those burning oil or coal, and in smaller sizes are much less economical.

This, it explained, is because nuclear power plants are less efficient in their use of heat than conventional power plants and they require costly materials, expensive shielding against radiation and more precise tooling.

"Nevertheless," the document went on, "their capital costs per unit of capacity are expected to decrease by at least as much as 30 per cent in the next four or five years, as normal engineering improvements take place, larger reactors are built and higher steam pressures and temperatures are employed."

Eisenhower, Herter Hold Conference

Summit Fate Seen Hinging On Khrush Handling Of Incident

By JOHN SCALI
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, due to face Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev across the summit table a week from Monday, called in his secretary of state for an unscheduled Sunday conference.

Presumably the prime topic of their discussion was the foreign policy impact of the U. S. spy plane incident.

Eisenhower met with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter immediately on returning to the White House from a weekend trip to his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Herter was at the White House when the President arrived at 4:45 p. m. and remained with Eisenhower until 6. After he left, the White House said there would be no statement on their discussions.

Reporters learned of the meeting only after spotting Herter's automobile parked on the White House grounds. They confirmed it through the President's press secretary, James C. Hagerty.

Herter, who returned Friday from an Atlantic Pact Council meeting in Istanbul, spent most of Saturday in his State Department office supervising preparation of this country's admission that the American plane Khrushchev boasted of shooting down was indeed on an intelligence mission.

The White House conference came as top officials said Khrushchev could virtually wreck prospects for friendly talks at the summit if he continues to hammer at the incident.

Soviet Premier Holds Key

The Soviet leader's public behavior in the next few days, these officials said, will determine the mood in which Eisenhower will approach the long-awaited meeting in Paris next Monday.

A Republican congressional spokesman, Rep. William E. Miller of New York suggested that Eisenhower might refuse to attend the Big Four meeting if Khrushchev "makes a circus out of" the plane episode in the next few days.

Miller, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, said the fate of the summit parley was at stake—"depending on how Mr. Khrushchev handles it (the plane incident)."

Further moves by Khrushchev to exploit the incident in spectacular fashion will convince Eisenhower that the Soviet leader is more interested in propaganda than in creating a serene atmosphere for discussion of critical world problems.

Accord Prospects Dimmed

Diplomatic authorities said the case already has dimmed what slim prospects there were that the top-level Big Four meeting could resolve the East-West deadlocks on the future of Berlin, Germany and disarmament.

Khrushchev has it within his power, they said, to torpedo the remaining chances completely unless he handles the followup in a subdued way.

Eisenhower and his top aides clearly would be deeply disturbed if, for example, Khrushchev put the captured American flier on public display at a giant news conference or if he were put on public trial prior to the summit conference.

Such Soviet moves might serve Moscow's propaganda purpose, it is acknowledged but would be almost certain to arouse an indignant storm of protest among Americans.

A frank admission by the State Department Saturday night that the plane was on a spy mission was clearly drafted with the hope that the Kremlin would play down further handling of the case lest it inflame East-West relations.

Khrushchev's Coup Brings Deep Anxiety To Western Europe

U. S. Summit Position Believed Weakened

LONDON (AP) — West European officials have been asked or given. Khrushchev's success in exposing had to be cleared through diplomatic intelligence activities of a U.S. matic channels," he said.

There were widespread fears that the American position in the Paris summit conference next week has been badly weakened. Allied officials privately expressed the view that President Eisenhower could hardly sit down with the Soviet Premier at the conference table in more embarrassing circumstances.

Two allies of the United States — Norway and Pakistan — denied knowledge of any American use of their territory for Francis G. Powers' flight over the U.S.S.R. last Sunday.

Khrushchev said the flight, halted by a Soviet rocket, was launched from the Pakistani city of Peshawar and that the landing was to have been made at Bodo, a northern Norwegian air base. A Foreign Ministry spokesman in Karachi, Pakistan's capital, said official inquiries showed no such plane had been in Peshawar. Khrushchev's claim that Powers' Lockheed U2 had been at Peshawar three days was declared to be "without any foundation."

Pakistani Foreign Secretary Mohammed Ikramullah, who is now in London, said about the same time that if the allegation was true Pakistan would "lodge a strong protest with the government of the United States to insure that such a thing does not happen again."

In Oslo, Norway's Foreign Ministry repeated a denial of any knowledge of the alleged Bodo landing plan. A spokesman, Arne Haugland, said: "We know nothing of it." Maj. Gen. E. Tufte Johnsen, air force commander for Northern Norway, said no permis-

Foe Of Castro Says Shooting Attempt On Life

HAVANA (AP) — A Cuban political leader called a traitor to followers of Fidel Castro charged on Sunday a shooting affray at Havana's International Airport was an attempt on his life.

Dr. Aureliano Sanchez Arango — whose welcome home Saturday from participation in a "congress of liberty and democracy" held in Maracay, Venezuela, was marred by airport rioting — made the accusations in a letter to two independent newspapers.

One of Sanchez Arango's followers was wounded by gunfire at the airport and several other persons also were hurt, two seriously enough to be hospitalized, Sanchez Arango, head of the Triple A organization which once operated clandestinely against Fulgen- cio Batista, said the affray "was obviously an attempt against my life."

Castro authorities were reported to have arrested a gunman they said shot Felipe Alonso, member of the Triple A executive board. No identification of the prisoner was given.

Sanchez Arango said his followers had alerted airport police and other Castro authorities to the presence of "a group of hostile armed men" at the airport but that despite the warning rioting was permitted to start.

Sanchez Arango and his followers actively oppose communism, and his organization and its supporters frequently are the target not only of the Communist party here but of Castro groups as well.

While Surin was watching that a friend, Leonid Chuzhak, drove up. Chuzhak, a former sailor, saw a parachute coming down.

The drop was toward a pine forest crossed by electric wire. Feeling the jumper was in danger from the wires, the two rushed toward the spot. The jumper landed on his back.

"We rushed over to him with only one thought in mind, to help him," Surin said. Others came up and helped remove his gloves, helmet and oxygen mask. Then they noticed the pilot had a gun.

The party took him to a car to drive to the state farm office and, as they were seating him, saw a knife in his flying suit pocket and removed it.

"We surrounded him just in case," Surin said. "What if he tried to do something to himself? At the same time we tried not to insult him. What if all this was misunderstanding?"

"The parachute jumper was quiet but assured. One could see he was well-schooled. He didn't say a word."

"He pretended he did not understand Russian but when farm director Mikhail N. Berman said 'No smoking here' he immediately pushed an ashtray away. Our suspicions were more and more confirmed."

Khrushchev told the Supreme Soviet in reporting on the incident that Powers was alive and well and that both he and the wreckage of his plane had been brought to Moscow. The newspaper accounts did not say exactly where Powers is held.

ADA Backs No Aspirant But Praises Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans for Democratic Action decided Sunday to withhold immediate endorsement of any presidential aspirant but gave Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), one of its founders, a resounding endorsement on the back.

The political organization, winding up its 13th annual convention, dismissed Vice President Richard M. Nixon, apparent choice of the Republican party, as one who has earned the support of his party's "ultraconservative elements."

The Democrats by contrast have offered ADA the "gratifying dilemma" of a number of liberal possibilities, said the resolution approved by overwhelming voice vote.

Johnson Shows Texas Strength

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson won a near sweep of Texas Democratic precinct conventions for the presidential nomination Saturday. The three top state candidates and the six congressmen who had opposition were nominated in the Democratic primary.

A majority of the precinct conventions adopted resolutions assuring that the senator would control the June 13 Texas Democratic Convention and the state delegation to the national convention.

The precinct conventions were Johnson's first opportunity to demonstrate his grass-roots support in his home state. His backing in rural areas is almost unanimous.

His strength "in a state that includes many diverse political views proves Lyndon Johnson has the vote-pulling capacity to become president," said Larry Blackmon, executive director of the senator's Texas forces.

Republicans held routine precinct conventions, many of which endorsed Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the presidential nomination.

Gov. Price Daniel, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey won renomination. Daniel and Wilson for third terms and Ramsey for his 11th.

Probe Of Surplus Arms Sale Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) urged a Senate investigation Sunday into sales of surplus military weapons.

The senator said some rifles loaned by this country to other nations in the past now are being dumped here at cut rate prices that compete with sporting arms manufacturers.

Saltonstall, senior Republican on the Senate Armed Services Committee, made public a letter to Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.), chairman of the Watchdog Preparedness subcommittee, asking an investigation by that group.

"It is my belief that sporting rifle manufacturers are essential to the future defense of our country in an emergency," Saltonstall wrote Johnson. "We should take steps to see that their ability to remain in business is not jeopardized by governmental policy."

Saltonstall said the trade in military surplus includes jet aircraft, tanks, military apparel and other materials which could "fall into hands where it might be used against the best interests of the United States and its allies."

The senator said the State Department has issued a temporary embargo on imports of surplus foreign rifles and the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization is considering a long-term halt on such imports.

Car, Bus Crash; Soldier Killed

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — A Greyhound bus with 45 passengers aboard collided on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Sunday with an automobile carrying three soldiers. One of the soldiers was killed.

The other two soldiers were hospitalized as was one of the bus passengers. Twenty two on the bus were checked at a hospital. State trooper Ronald Ramage said the driver of the car, Robert A. Guidaboni, 19, Middleboro, Mass., had fallen asleep at the wheel. The car veered across a median strip and hit the bus on its right front side as it turned to avoid an impact.

The bus also crossed the median strip and ran into a field. The door of the bus was jammed and most of the passengers were confined for an hour until some began complaining of pain. Rescue workers took them out a front window and through an emergency door that had been jammed.

Norstad Stricken, Rushed To Hospital

MUNICH, Germany (UPI) — The supreme Allied commander in Europe, U.S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, became ill while golfing Sunday and was rushed to a military hospital, the U.S. Army disclosed.

Norstad, 53, an Air Force general before he took over as NATO military chief, was brought to the 2nd U.S. Army Field Hospital in Munich. He became ill on the links at Berchtesgaden.

Physicians declined to comment on his condition or describe the nature of his illness. A report was to be issued Monday.

$330,500 In Legal Fees Paid Last Year By SRC

26 State Legislators Received $40,000

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission paid out $330,500 in fees to 282 lawyers or law firms last year.

The attorney general's office made the report Saturday. It showed that 26 members of the Legislature received $40,000 in fees for legal work. That was two fewer and their total $20,750 less than the previous year.

The following members of the General Assembly or their firms were listed:

Senators — Samuel W. Barrick (D - Frederick) $575; Harry R. Hughes (D-Caroline) $450; William S. James (D-Harford) $925; Frederick C. Malkus (D-Dorchester) $160; John Clarence North (D-Talbot) $915; James A. Pine (D-Baltimore) $5,850; George B. Rasin (D-Kent) $460; Edward O. Weant (D-Carroll) $4,100.

Delegates — Alger Y. Barbee (D-

Navy Survival Training Pays Off For Middle

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — When the light plane he was piloting stalled and crashed into Chesapeake Bay, Midshipman A. J. Shower Jr. knew exactly what to do.

He unstrapped his seat belt, kicked out the door of the submerged plane and floated to the surface.

Shower went through the dangerous episode Saturday and came out with only a slight scratch — thanks to survival lessons he had learned at the Naval Academy.

The 22-year-old Wisconsin midshipman was flying a light plane he rented at Lee Airport near here and brought the craft over the Naval Academy yacht Royono to take pictures.

After he made a turn, Shower said, the engine stalled and the plane plummeted into the water. The yacht crew picked him up and he was transferred to a Maryland Tidewater Fisheries patrol boat.

The junior middle had received instruction on the Navy's "dilettante" That is an aviation training device resembling a small roller coaster which tosses a midshipman into the Academy swimming pool, where he has to unstrap himself and float to the surface.

Dels. Walsh, See On Study Groups

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three members of the House of Delegates have been named to head study committees of the Legislative Council.

Del. William M. Houck (D-Frederick) will head a group to study use of funds for forests and parks; Del. Egbert L. Quinn (D-Somerset) will be chairman of one on fishery laws, and Del. Francis X. Gallagher (D-Balto 3rd) will direct a group to study illegal practice of law.

The Legislative Council made the appointments Saturday.

Among those on the fisheries committee is Del. William Walsh (D-Allegany).

Maryland Primary Rated Breathe For Kennedy

By LOUIS PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Win or lose in West Virginia, Sen. John F. Kennedy should find Maryland a welcome sight this week as the next stop in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Unlike his bruising battle with Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) in Tuesday's West Virginia primary, Kennedy has aroused only token opposition from Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) and two political unknowns in the May 17 Maryland race.

Even Morse concedes that the state's 24 nominating votes are practically wrapped up for Kennedy.

"I'm just running because Jack begged for some opposition, and I thought I'd accommodate him," Morse tells his Maryland audience. In a more serious vein he adds a hope that, by dramatizing the issues in his campaign, he will help liberalize the Democratic platform for November.

Kennedy, barely waiting for the last vote to be counted in West Virginia, will begin a four-day Maryland swing Wednesday.

He'll come into the state knowing that virtually every Democratic leader here has already lined up behind him.

A notable exception is Gov. Tawes, firmly in control of the party, who has remained silent. The 66-year-old governor will enter a hospital tomorrow for a physical check-up scheduled long before Kennedy decided to run in Maryland.

Although Tawes had expressed a wish that major candidates stay out of Maryland, aides expect him to be on hand Friday when the Kennedy campaign encourages visits to Annapolis, the state capital.

Informed sources say the governor probably will endorse Kennedy as his choice among those running in Maryland.

This would not bar a switch of support to another candidate after the Maryland delegation fulfills its legal commitment in the early balloting at the July nominating convention in Los Angeles.

Maryland law requires the delegation to vote for the winner of the primary as long as it believes he has a chance to win the nomination.

If the Kennedy express is delayed early in the convention, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) or Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) figures to pick up the Maryland votes.

Although Tawes has cleared many of Kennedy's county campaign chairman appointments, he went out of his way last month to attend a dinner honoring Symington in Salisbury, and has been listening attentively to Johnson supporters in recent weeks.

Besides Kennedy and Morse, Maryland Democrats may vote for Chicago furniture man Lar Daly, Baltimore draftsman Andrew J. Easter, two perennial also rans who sometimes campaign in Uncle Sam costumes, or for an uncommitted delegation to the convention. Tawes has discouraged anti-Kennedy forces trying to promote votes for uncommitted delegation.

Besides the Democratic presidential nominee, the primary will determine Republican and Democratic candidates for the House of Representatives and delegates to the party national conventions.

Surprise Mock Battle Staged At Antietam

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Some 210 Civil War buffs were surprised Sunday by a realistic reenactment of one segment of the Battle of Antietam.

The spectacle was a surprise climax of the third annual national assembly of the Civil War Round Tables.

Delegates from 13 states were touring the battle area by bus when they came upon five Confederate and Union units off Bloody Lane.

Southern troops assaulted a hill held by Union infantry. The Northern forces fell back, then counterattacked. The mock battle was fought by the Sharpsburg Rifles and four "Living History" units organized by local enthusiasts.

The battle, arranged by the local Civil War Round Table, took place in a heavy rain.

All the participants were dressed in Civil War uniforms and fired Civil War muskets and cannons. The two sides used infantry, cavalry and artillery.

Ike Hears Home Called First Line Of Defense

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — President Eisenhower attended church services this Mother's Day and heard the pastor describe the home as "America's first line of defense."

The Rev. Robert A. Macaskill told worshippers at the Gettysburg Presbyterian Church that the home is "the outpost of national security."

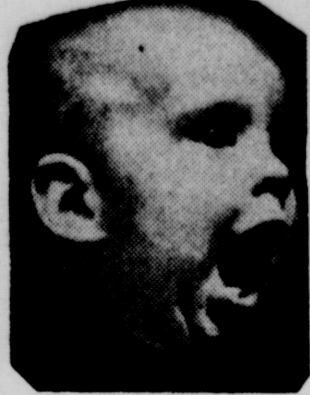

In a sermon entitled "Mothers, Men and Nations," Rev. Macaskill said "America's first line of defense is not in atom bombs or battleships but in her homes."

Two Students Die In Fiery Auto Crash

HAMILTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Two Colgate University students were killed Sunday when their car slammed into a garage and burst into flames.

State police said the victims, John H. Arscott, 19, of 35 Deep Dale Rd., Wayne, Pa., and William Tangalos, 18, of 35 Broadhead Ave., Jamestown, N.Y., were trapped in the blazing wreckage.

The crash occurred almost directly across the road from the volunteer fire department headquarters in this village, where Colgate is located.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Everyone's uncomfortable when you say the wrong thing, you most of all.

To Say The Right Thing Every Time

There are ways to avoid saying the wrong thing, and all the anguish that goes with it. Six rules guarantee safe conduct through any conversation, forestall awkward remarks. And they all add up to just this! Never let your conversation run away with your consideration.

1. Steer clear of unpleasant or highly emotional subjects. There's danger in every word of a prejudice-charged subject such as religion or politics unless you are positive of the sympathies of your listeners.

2. Don't start a subject with a critical comment or strong opinion. You're likely to step on somebody's toes unwittingly, and there's no easier way to alienate people than to attack what is dear to them.

3. Avoid all questions that pry into the privacy of another, and comment that is too personal. And careful there, that you don't give away someone else's business.

4. Respect opposite opinions. You can't be more wrong than to say "You're wrong" abruptly, or to be sarcastic. If you can't agree, say nothing or phrase disagreement with great tact. "I'm sure there's truth in what you say, but may I express an opinion?" Or change the subject, gently.

5. Think three times before you speak if there's any doubt of the effect of what you say. Twice may not be enough to prevent embarrassment, hurt, or antagonism. Break the habit of speech as a quick reaction to the unusual — it's too easy to blurt out

Grass has a wider range than any other plant. It occupies virtually all parts of the earth. Grass tolerates both torrid and extremely cold weather. It is the dominant feature of life on prairies, plains, savannas, steppes, marshes and tidal flats. The largest species of grass, bamboo, forms great forests and jungles.

Important But Confusing Event

The new trade talks in Paris may seem dull and complex to the uninitiated, but they have a very real meaning for Americans on several counts. The most important is the attempt to establish in the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) a new economic arm to meet the Communist economic challenge. Moreover, the hope of the U. S. government is to bridge the gap between the European Economic Community — the Common Market Six — and the European Free Trade Association (EFTA) — the Outer Seven.

The effect would be first to group the former Marshall Plan nations in a coordinated plan for economic development of economically less advanced nations. This would be done by furnishing capital on a cost-sharing basis, with the now prosperous Marshall Plan nations yoked with the United States, for "hard" and "soft" loans for industrial and agricultural improvements.

Further, the United States wants to avoid a potentially dangerous trade war between the two European trade blocs. And more than incidentally, the United States wants to maintain as free a market as possible for U. S. exports.

All three European communities, the Common Market, Euratom, and the Coal and Steel Community, will participate in the Paris talks on establishing the OECD. The EFTA Seven, as such, will not, although all its members will.

The hope is that the new economic grouping will come into existence by September 1, 1961. The OECD, with the United States and Canada as full members, would be the successor to the Organization for European Economic Co-operation (OEEC), which has 18 European members, and the U. S. and Canada as associates. Meantime, OEEC continues to function. The United States interest is demonstrated by the fact that W. Randolph Burgess, Ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, is one of the four "wise men" who drafted the plan. The new grouping could become the long-sought economic shield of NATO. It also could accomplish a lot toward protecting American jobs and, indeed, the general economy.

These Days

Useful Work

Rich men do not always know what to do with their money, particularly after they die. They work hard accumulating a fortune and then it often goes to encourage profligacy, waste, and appalling dissipation. The value of the Foundation is that it makes it possible for a rich person to put his money to use for some purpose other than for himself or his family.

Albert Lasker was an advertising man and industrialist who served his country ably in World War I. He amassed a fortune and desired to leave it for useful purposes. Mary Lasker, his widow, is a person of unusual perspicacity and social consciousness who devotes herself to good works in a very sensible manner.

Of particular value, I think, are the annual awards to medical journalists. This is a new and increasingly popular field of bringing news to the public. More and more medical copy is being published and the public is beginning to realize what is being done for it in this regard.

The two big killers are heart ailments and various cancers and with regard to both nothing can be more damaging than ignorance. Physicians and surgeons do what they can, but too often they are resisted by frightened patients, by those who so fear death that they stand in the way of continuing life. The advantage of knowledge is that it can, under favorable circumstances, eliminate this element of fear. There are some who must die in our present state of knowledge but there are surprisingly large numbers who can be helped and who can help themselves. The cured cancer numbers, for instance, are on the constant rise.

I have had a very thorough experience with both these killers and I must say that somehow I was never terrified by them. The word, cancer, neither frightened nor distressed me and when I was permitted to return home, I knew that I should be examined twice a year for about five years. These examinations are now as routine as going to a dentist for a cleaning. I have to see my heart man, Dr. O. Alan Rose, on stated occasions, and a delightful technician shows up every other Tuesday morning to stick a needle into my left arm to discover by blood chemistry whether I am sinning. (I use doctors' names purposely to break down a stupid tradition of anonymity.)

Perhaps this will go on for the rest of my life. It is a routine that interferes with nothing, that is gentle and at times even jolly, and there it is.

The value of the Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation awards to medical journalism is that it stimulates bringing everything out in the open. Alcoholics Anonymous discovered that talking about our illnesses and weaknesses is a form of therapy. And presumably that is, to a degree, true about so many of our illnesses. Perhaps that is why elderly ladies enjoy sitting on hotel verandahs talking about their operations. It helps them get over their troubles.

I find when I use the word, cancer, a look comes into the listener's eye. It is as though I were a disembodied spirit, some ghostly creature returned from Sheol. But when I say that the best way to get over one's aches and pains is to have a cancer clipped out, the listener regards my levity as unseemly. The other day, I heard Arthur Godfrey talk about his cancer and I thought that he took it altogether too seriously. One need only thank God and the doctors and the needle-stickers that one is still alive and kicking and to leave it at that.

The Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation is to be congratulated for promoting medical journalism. Ignorance is not bliss; it can be a frightful pain in all the wrong places. The more we know, the less we fear — unless we enjoy fear, which some do. Who shall deprive such a one of his pleasures? Mary Lasker looks like a fearless person who has discovered all the joys of giving and who gives not only generously but with unusual wisdom. Inherited accumulations of wealth, hoarded or wasted, seem out of place in our kind of a world. The distribution of such accumulations objectively given in the manner of the Lasker Foundation, can only result from mutual understanding of a husband and wife who recognize their social responsibility.

Pre-Election Polls And Their Interpretation

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Vice President Nixon says he was surprised by the big vote he got last Tuesday in the Indiana primaries and that it shows the unreliability of public-opinion polls.

The polls themselves are taken honestly and in accordance with scientific principles of sampling. What's really wrong is that the correct interpretation of polls has sometimes been neglected and that the public hasn't been told the true limitations of polling.

Thus, how many people know that neither Dr. Gallup nor any other pollster for that matter, so far as this writer knows, has ever taken a state-by-state poll prior to a Presidential election? The reason is that it costs too much.

Also, no polling organization has ever made a poll by Congressional districts. This is also too expensive and takes too much time.

Yet before both Presidential and Congressional elections there have been many polls based on percentages of population taken as a whole across the country or by major regions.

Under our present electoral system, it wouldn't really matter if more persons voted Democratic in an election for the Presidency, as a Republican could still win a majority of the electoral votes. Thus, there is a preponderance of Democrats in the country as a whole because there are so few Republicans in the South. If merely a percentage of the population nationally is taken, a poll would always show a Democratic victory, but the pollsters introduce compensating factors based on various types of samples and on regional groupings. In the end, they come up with percentages from which, on the basis of past experience, they make estimates that generally are correct within a few points.

Sampling, therefore, is a mixture of prediction and correlation of current data with past statistics. The public, on the other hand, sometimes over-rates these predictions. In Indiana, for instance, Vice President Nixon says the advance polls showed Senator Kennedy as taking 55 to 60 per cent of the total vote. Actually, the Vice President received more votes than did the Massachusetts Senator, who got about 42 per cent of the total cast for all candidates.

This has led Mr. Nixon to say that he agrees with former President Truman that "the only poll that counts is the one that takes place on election day."

But the public doesn't want to wait till election day. It likes to talk about a coming election and to make guesses and perhaps bets. So the pollsters furnish a lot of significant information on which anybody can make his own estimate.

In England, one of the polling organizations went wrong last year in predicting that the Socialist-Laborites would get a much heavier vote than they did. The victory by the Conservatives was a surprise. What really happened? It is true there are more Socialist-Labor voters than Conservative, but the pollsters neglected to find out accurately what proportion of those they polled intended to vote on election day. Also, included in the poll were many who were not eligible to vote due to residential or other requirements of law.

The same thing can happen in the United States this year. Apathy is a big factor in national elections. Many people who are not discontented with things as they are will fail to register or to

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

OLD LAW — The groping for ways to find a settlement with Russia has led one member of Congress along old, old legal paths. House Democratic leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts has passed on to the White House a legal brief in hope of strengthening the President's hand at Paris.

The brief argues that when a piece of land is completely surrounded by other lands, the owner has a right to come and go under both domestic and international law. Precedents were traced back to 629 B. C.

McCormack hopes that the matter of West Berlin, completely surrounded by Russian-controlled territory, comes up for discussion.

Government lawyers look on the brief as an ingenious approach to a plan to settle the Berlin stalemate, but they don't have much hope that it will work. It is pointed out that it has been extremely hard to get Russia to recognize laws and treaties enacted as recently as 1945, without expecting them to observe something almost 2,600 years old.

Secretary Flemming Gets Needling About Ike's Health Insurance Plan

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The razzing took place behind closed doors where the public couldn't hear it, but Secretary of Health Arthur Flemming got plenty of it when he defended the administration's oldest health insurance bill before the House Ways and Means Committee.

Ironie fact was that earlier Flemming had privately sided with the Democrats. However he remained completely loyal to his chief in the White House.

The razzing even came from some of the same Democrats who had voted down the Forand bill. This would provide health care for the aged from Social Security taxes in contrast to Ike's proposal to pay for health care out of the general funds of the Treasury, plus state contributions.

"The Forand bill, which I opposed, at least would pay for health insurance out of taxes," declared Democrat Frank Icard of Texas. "This proposed $600,000,000 plan of yours is nothing but a give-away. How can you possibly defend the President's action in lecturing Congress about economy and then propose a scheme like this?"

"Our program may have some flaws," countered Flemming, "but it is the best solution I can offer. The fact that it is a voluntary program, unlike the Forand plan, more than justifies the flaws, in my opinion."

"I don't agree at all," commented Democrat Burr Harrison of Virginia, another foe of the Forand bill. "This bill you offer combines all the features of a subsidy for private insurance firms and a federal handout to policyholders. I'd like to get an insurance policy under these terms. Can I buy one?"

"No, Mr. Harrison," Flemming smiled. "These particular policies are not for sale."

Under questioning by Hale Boggs of Louisiana, Flemming said he wasn't sure Budget Director Maurice Stans approved of proposed grants to the states, ranging from one-third to two-thirds of state shares in the cost of hospital and medical insurance for the aged needy.

Doctors Approve? "How about the American Medical Association?" needled Boggs. "Did the White House get AMA approval before coming to Congress?"

"I don't know how the AMA feels," commented Flemming. "You can't be sure of the position of some of these organizations from one day to the next."

Democrat Frank Karsten of Missouri said the governor of his state was concerned about Missouri's contribution to a federal-state health insurance program for old people.

"Under the sliding scale of federal grants to the states which you propose, how would Missouri fare?" inquired Karsten. "What would it cost a state like Missouri to participate in your proposed program?"

"We are now in the process of working up some statistics that will answer your question," replied Flemming.

"Well, I don't mind saying that I am growing a little weary about White House delays," snapped Karsten. "Especially when the President accuses us of delaying. Now Congress has to wait again while you do some more studying. You say you are working up statistics, but a lot of us in Congress are getting worked up, too, about the administration's failure to work out something we can agree on."

Hagerty Tells Truth When Jim Hagerty announced on behalf of the President that his two new appointees to the Federal Power Commission didn't represent consumers or gas or oil interests or "anything else" Jim was certainly telling the truth.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who's throwing those verbal stones at Senators Humphrey and Morse, should remember that parable about people who live in glass houses. It was FDR Jr. who once took a $60,000 fee as the paid agent for the most notorious dictator in the Western Hemisphere, Generalissimo Trujillo.

It looked as if the TV cameraman who handled that Humphrey-Kennedy debate in West Virginia was a Kennedy man. He moved in for attractive close-ups on young Jack, kept Humphrey on fuzzy long shots. . . . When you consider that Indiana was once the stronghold of the Ku Klux Klan and that Eisenhower walked away with heavy majorities twice, Kennedy did amazingly well in the Hoosier state.

The birthplace of Christopher Columbus stands outside the old battlements of Genoa. It is a tiny, two-story house covered with ivy. It can't be more than 15 feet wide and, the day I stood before it, I realized why the kid had to go out and discover a new world: Claustrophobia.

There are some misconceptions about the voyage. One is that Queen Isabella pawned her jewels to help her friend Chris. This is not true. What she said, in the presence of her husband, was that if no one else would help Columbus, she would leave the crown jewels to soak in Uncle Ben's Friendly Loan Company. Ferdinand took the hint and chucked $8,500 into the kitty.

The entire cost of the trip was about $24,000, the price of a ranch house. In a way, Chris failed because he was out to discover a shortcut to India, and what he discovered was a new hemisphere. No one could tell him that it wasn't India, so he named the natives Indians. This unnerved some of the tribes, like the Iroquois and Seminoles who, until that time, didn't know what they were.

The ships were the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria. The first two were little caravels, 50 tons apiece, each manned by 18 men and a skipper, and each with enough pizza, pasta and hot peppers to keep everybody alert for a year. The Santa Maria was fully decked and 100 tons. The Pinzon brothers were captains of the three vessels. Columbus was the admiral.

They blasted out of Spain at a zippy four knots and headed west. Altogether there were 124 men on board and, after the first week, they became pretty sick of each other. They became pretty sick of the sea too, and Columbus couldn't have won a popularity contest if he had been alone in a phone booth.

Within two weeks, the lookouts began to yell "Tierra!" (land) every time a hunk of seaweed came up over the horizon. Through calm and storm, the Pinzon brothers kept the little fleet together and whiled away the hours calling each other names in Spanish pig Latin.

Some of the crew members were prisoners who had been promised their freedom for manning the boats. These, in the main, were Barcelona juvenile delinquents who spent their off hours below decks trying to invent switchblade knives.

About 2 a. m. on October 12, 1492, a lookout on the Pinta named Rodrigo de Triana shouted "Tierra!" and somebody yelled back "Aw, shuddup!" in Castilian.

Land had truly been discovered. Columbus became excited and fired a cannon to signal the news to the other ships. They backed off, thinking that 33 days at sea had loosened some of his plush buttons. The Pinzon brothers

Take for instance Tom Donegan, who is to replace Commissioner William Connelley, staunch champion of the consumer on the EPC.

Mr. Donegan spent 12 pedestrian years in the FBI, coming in with Roosevelt in 1933 and remaining there until the early part of Truman's administration in 1946. He then moved up to be special assistant to two Democratic attorneys general, Tom Clark and Howard McGrath.

At this time Donegan was a loyal Democrat. He almost had to be. Came the 1952 elections and Republican victory. Donegan then became an independent. As such he got along well with the new Republican Attorney General, Herbert Brownell. At one time Brownell considered him for a judgeship, finally threw him a bone in the form of appointment on the Subversive Activities Control Board.

To sum it up briefly, the new commissioner, who replaces the champion of the consumer, Connelley, is an undistinguished payroll rider, a political chameleon who has changed party allegiance at the drop of election returns. Jim Hagerty is certainly right. Donegan represents neither the consumer, gas nor oil nor anything else.

Note—Though the new Federal Power Commissioner has said: "I never had anything to do with utilities out of paying my gas bill," he does know something about one form of power—horsepower. At one time he did investigation work for the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

Backstage When Jim Hagerty announced on behalf of the President that his two new appointees to the Federal Power Commission didn't represent consumers or gas or oil interests or "anything else" Jim was certainly telling the truth.

pointed to the sides of their heads and made rotary motions, but, at dawn, they saw a verdant island and the men came up on deck and hailed Columbus as a great explorer.

They landed on what was probably Watling Island in the Grand Bahamas group. Chris planted the flag of Ferdinand and Isabella and named the place San Salvador. The brown-skinned natives beat their little chests happily and made the pale strangers welcome. Two days later, Chris sailed around the island and one of the Pinzon brothers sailed the Santa Maria right up on a coral reef, which led to some loud conversation between him and the admiral.

The ship was abandoned and Columbus built a fort named La Navidad and put 44 men in it. Then he sailed for home and spread the word that he had found a short cut to India and took a lot of bows. He returned to the new world a year later and, where he had left the 44 Spaniards, he found only ashes and some happy little natives who looked as though they had picked up a little wealth.

Between voyages, honors were heaped on Columbus all over Europe. Once, at a banquet reportedly given by the Grand Cardinal of the Realm, some Spanish courtiers became jealous of Columbus and said that any Spanish sailor could have discovered the new world. Chris took an egg and asked the courtiers to make it stand on end. They tried and failed. Chris took the egg in silence, tapped the end of it until it cracked, and then stood it on end.

It wasn't much of a trick. Had he known anything about eggs, he could have shaken the egg until the yoke broke inside the shell, then stood it on end without cracking it. Still, you can't expect too much of a man who flunked geography.

Cross off another folk tale children have been taught for generations. The owl may be old but he definitely is not wise. Biologist Roger Payne, after exhaustive experiments at Cornell, announced without qualification, "The owl is one of the dumbest animals around. He's even dumber than a chicken, if that is possible." Owls he's studied, continued Dr. Payne, didn't have sense enough to walk around an obstruction the opposite way when their paths were blocked, and usually bit the very hands that fed them.

Payne conceded that owls have extraordinarily sensitive ears, but that's about all. They are guided to the mice they're chasing in the dark purely by sound.

So there go the wise old owls. What will they be debunking next?

144 CC Golfers To Join 38th Spring Tournament

First Round Matches End Next Sunday

Players Vie In Nine Flights; Wolfe To Defend Title

One hundred and forty-four members of the Cumberland Country Club will compete in the 38th spring handicap tournament of the Men's Golf Association which gets under way this week.

Joe Wolfe is the defending champion and tops the pairings in the championship flight. He defeated Orville W. Jackson, 1 up, in the 18 hole final last year.

There will be nine flights of 16 players each in play and all first round matches must be completed by Sunday, May 15. The top man listed in each match must contact his opponent to arrange the time they will meet.

The even hole tournament which began Saturday and was rained out yesterday will be continued next weekend.

A nine hole twilight handicap tournament will be staged on Friday, May 13.

Coach Corum Is Not Discouraged By Loss

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia University football coach Gene Corum said Sunday he was a "little disappointed" but certainly not discouraged by his Mountaineers' 21-14 loss to an Alumni team.

The Alumni, paced by such stars as Sam Huff, Joe Marconi and Freddy Wyant, scored two quick touchdowns near the end of the first half Saturday in the rain.

West Virginia's sophomore-dominated varsity never did recover and wound up with a minus 16 yards rushing, lost the slippery ball five times on fumbles and had two of its passes intercepted.

VENETIAN WAY with Vic Sovinski, trainer

Venetian Way, Derby Victor, To Run In Preakness May 21

Bally Ache, Tompion, Victoria Park Also Expected To Race In Maryland

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Venetian Way, with one-third of the triple crown safely stowed away after his brilliant Kentucky Derby victory, flies to Baltimore Tuesday for the Preakness May 21.

But, he won't be alone. At least four of the top contenders for the 86th running of the derby by Saturday at Churchill Downs intend to try Venetian Way again for size in the $150,000-added Preakness at old Pimlico.

Actually, there were no serious alibis about Venetian Way's 3 1/2 lengths victory over Bally Ache and 11 others on a damp track-laden field "good" but gum-like, holding and slippery from Friday night's rains.

But other owners and trainers want to get a crack at Venetian Way on a dry, fast track. The impression was that the story might be different at Pimlico.

"Venetian Way hit a track he liked, and no one was going to beat him in the derby," said Bert Wheeler, trainer of C. V. Whitney's Tompion.

Tompion, the even-money favorite after victories in the Santa Anita Derby and the Blue Grass Stakes, finished fourth, barely nosing out Adele L. Rand's Bourbon Prince.

Vic Sovinski, the happy trainer of Isaac Blumberg's Venetian Way, said he plans to start the colt in the Preakness, and then go to New York for the $125,000-added Belmont Stakes June 11. The 1 1/4-mile derby was No. 1 in the triple crown for 3-year-olds.

The Preakness is a mile and three-sixteenths. While the Belmont is the tough mile and one-half route.

Heading for Pimlico in addition to Venetian Way, Tompion and Leonard Fruchtman's Bally Ache are E. P. Taylor's Victoria Park and the Llangollen Farm's Divine Comedy. Mrs. C. S. Hodge's Fighting Hodge, a California like Divine Comedy, also is a Preakness possibility. Both were out of the money Saturday.

Deadline On Games
Honors For Porter

Tad Named Hot Dog
Olympic Feud Ended

By C. V. BURNS

KEYSER HIGH School can retain the baseball title in the Potomac Valley Conference if it wins its tenth and final game of the season with Paw Paw.

Southern High of Oakland is 4-0 now but can't qualify for the title even if it plays eight games and wins all of them.

The Garrett County school was uncertain as to whether it would field a baseball team this spring on account of the late start caused by the severe winter. Then Southern scheduled six games and the last we heard the Highlanders were trying to add two more.

To qualify for the PVC title a school must play eight games, that's home and home games with four teams, and the baseball schedules must be in the hands of the league secretary by April 15. Southern High, we are informed, notified the conference secretary April 25 that it had scheduled six games and hoped to book eight. That was ten days after the deadline date agreed upon by the conference about six years ago.

This agreement came about after several schools had added football and basketball games after the seasons were under way and affected some of the schools that were in the running for championships. At that time it was vowed this would never happen again. Southern was not in the PVC at that time.

FREDERICK HIGH School, which plays host to the CVAL track and field meet Saturday, May 21, has won six consecutive meets to date.

Last week the Cadets copped the St. James Invitational by piling up 50 1/4 points. North Hagerstown was second with 36 5/6 followed by Charles Town, St. James, South Hagerstown, Martinsburg and Berkeley Springs.

Prior to that meet, Frederick whipped Bel Air, Westminster and Northwest in a quadrangular affair and before that trimmed Bethesda-Chevy Chase, last year's state Class A champs.

ARTHUR G. RAMEY should feel happy over the election of Henry V. Porter to Basketball's Hall of Fame.

It was through the efforts of Ramey that Porter, former secretary of the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations, came to Cumberland in 1953 and 1954 to act as consultant at the football clinics sponsored by the Board of Education.

Ramey attended several national conventions with Porter whose headquarters were at Chicago.

Twenty-seven members have been named to the Hall of Fame which is being erected at Springfield, Mass.

THE NAME of a once famous sports cartoonist has been revived with the announcement by the National Hot Dog Month Council that the month of July will be observed as National Hot Dog Month.

Naming of the meat, roll and mustard combination is credited to Tad Dorgan, better known as Tad. While covering a game at the Polo Grounds, he observed the sausages sputtering on a grill. The next morning in

Win At Fort Hill 4th Time Six Years

Capturing first place in 11 of the 16 events, including a sweep of four relays, Montgomery Blair High School of Silver Spring, rolled up a total of 109 points to win the Fort Hill High School track and field meet Saturday at the local stadium.

It was the fourth time in the past six years that the Blazers won the meet. The past two years they finished as runner-up to the Sentinels.

Fort Hill finished second with 52 markers, 57 points in the rear of the Montgomery countians. Allegany's Campers were third with 35 1/2 points followed by Martinsburg with 16 points and Beall with 7 1/2 tallies.

The Sentinels were credited with four firsts and two of those were copied by Fred Joyce, who set a new discus record of 149 feet, 5 1/4 inches. He also won the shot put.

Montgomery Blair hung up three of the four new meet records. They were 1:36 in the 800 relay, 3:36 in the mile relay and O'Reilly's broad jump of 22 feet, 2 inches.

Allegany's lone win was credited to Bill Claus who won the mile run in 4:47, a new Allegany High School record.

Montgomery Blair had a pair of "double" winners. But won the 100 yards dash and 440 yard run while O'Neill captured both the low and high hurdles.

The third in the series of point trials will be staged Sunday, May 29.

YORBA LINDA, Calif. (UPI) — Sam Snead took a firm grip on first place in the $50,000 Round Robin ABC All-Star Golf Sunday when he fired a five-under-par 67 to beat a 70 by Dr. Cary Middle-comb. Combined with two previous 68s, Snead's round Sunday gave him a 54 hole total of 203 — 13 under par. His closest competitor with a day remaining in the play is Jimmy Demaret, who at the end of 36 holes is five-under.

CHICAGO (UPI) — The scheduled game between the Milwaukee Braves and the Chicago Cubs was postponed Sunday because of rain. The game will be played today, originally an open date.

The Baltimore Orioles' 22-year-old outstanding rookie pitching prospect, Chuck Estrada, credits the coaching on control he received as the most important factor in his rise to American League ranks.

"I used to be extremely wild, but I was taught to start my motion at the waist rather than take a full windup with a lot of motion to pump maybe once, then throw," he points out.

The Pirates of the Dapper Dan Little League will practice Wednesday and Saturday at 4 p.m. at Post Field.

Garbage Plan For Lonaconing Is Outlined

Council Favors Monthly Pay Idea

LONACONING — Meeting in special session, Mayor Robert D. Peebles, Councilmen Benjamin Evans Jr., Robert Grove and James Berry, and Town Attorney James S. Getty, discussed plans for a private contractor to haul garbage in Lonaconing. An agreement was entered into with Joseph I. McGregor and William J. Devlin, of Lonaconing, to haul garbage for the town on a three months trial basis. With service satisfaction the agreement can be made permanent.

The two men will learn the collection and dumping procedures in the next few weeks, traveling on the town's truck with the regular crew on Fridays to acquaint themselves with garbage collecting routes, and to plan with the families to receive $1 in advance for one month's collection per family.

The new garbage plan will be in effect starting Thursday evening, June 2, with the private contractors planning to collect Thursday evenings through early Friday mornings when traffic will not present problems in the collection at curbs.

The town's garbage dump will be completely in charge by the new contractors, McGregor and Devlin, who will be responsible for maintaining sanitary conditions and reducing fire hazards to a minimum. Those who do not subscribe to the family plan, $1 per month for collection at their homes, but wish to haul their own garbage to the dump will be charged 50c per three months and will be permitted at only designated times to use the town's dump on Jackson Mountain.

The hauling of garbage by the town of Lonaconing has helped to keep the town beautiful and clean and prevented dumping of refuse in Georges Creek which runs through the community. The mayor and council have adopted this new plan, hoping townspeople will continue to cooperate in garbage disposal.

The rate was set low purposely so every family can take advantage of the weekly collection. Mr. McGregor may be contacted by telephone, Homestead 3-2436, Jackson Street, Lonaconing, by anyone living in the town or in Charlestown, St. Mary's Terrace, Detmold, and outlying districts.

Eliminating fire hazards and keeping the dump as clean as possible will be the responsibility of the contractors. Just this week, Good Will Fire company received four fire alarms, to extinguish fires at the dumps. One call was Friday at 1:30 a. m.

Councilman Benjamin Zarger who had a slight heart attack and is hospitalized at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, was not present for the special session.

This new plan will be presented at the Mayor and Council meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the council hall.

Magistrate To Address Beall PTA

FROSTBURG — The final meeting of Beall Elementary and Junior High School PTA for 1959-60 will be held today at 7:15 p.m. The executive committee met recently in the principal's office to discuss plans for the meeting.

Parents are invited to meet with homeroom teachers from 7:15 to 7:45 p.m.

At 7:45 p.m. Mrs. Marie Lewis, president, will conduct the business meeting in the auditorium.

Edward Flanigan, trial magistrate of Frostburg, will address the group on "The Effects of the Community on Education."

A slate of officers for the school year 1960-61 will be presented by the nominating committee, headed by Miss Athalia Everline. The Beall Elementary and Junior High Band under direction of Frank Munson, will play several selections.

The meeting will end with refreshments being served in the school cafeteria by the homeroom mothers.

Broiler Growers Make Honor Roll

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — A number of South Branch Valley broiler growers are cited on the March honor roll and honorable mention list announced by Ted R. Hash, extension poultryman at West Virginia University.

Listed on the Pro League honor roll, for growers with 6,500-bird capacity or more, is Clyde Ours Sr. of Hardy County. The Semi Pro League honor roll, for growers with 2,000 to 6,500, bird capacity, lists Opal MacDonald, Grant County; Jimmy Waggy, Pendleton County; Marvin Combs, Hardy County; S. P. Cain, Hardy County, and Ernest Schell, Grant County.

All of these growers except Mr. Combs also were included in the honorable mention list for feed conversion ratio. Raymond Hedrick, Pendleton County, also made the Pro League honorable mention list.

Progress Seen In Watershed Development

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — Glenn Baker, assistant state conservationist in charge of watersheds for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, reports that progress is being made in the watershed program, especially in the area included in the Potomac River basin.

He states that planning is progressing as rapidly as possible on Patterson's Creek in Mineral and Grant counties.

At New Creek and White's Run in Mineral County, plans for Dam No. 17 have been completed and are awaiting approval. As soon as the weather permits, Dam No. 16, which is 88 feet high, will be seeded.

On the South Fork of the Potomac in Pendleton and Hardy counties, the contract for Dam No. 10 has been let. Bids should be available soon for Dams No. 11 and No. 16. By summer, work will have started on six of the 23 dams to be constructed on this large watershed.

The Potomac Valley Soil Conservation District Board received a petition from Lunce Creek in Grant County for assistance in making plans for a watershed program.

Progress Seen In Watershed Development

The princesses will be two sixth grade girls, Mary Ellen Logsdon and Jeanie Spriggs. The flower girls are Debbie Slider, Debbie Kyle, Joann Bittinger and Susan George. Larry Joe Miller will carry the crown.

Attendants are Debbie Snyder and Harry Lee Miller, Grade 2; Brenda Broadwater and Darrell Kitzmiller, Grade 3; Dorothy Neilson and Robert Green, Grade 4; Darla Miller, Wayne Phillips, Carol Mason and Robert Bailly, Grade 5.

The student body will honor the queen and her court with a program of songs and dances.

Barton WSCS Has Meeting

BARTON — The WSCS of the Barton Methodist Church held their regular monthly meeting Thursday, in the church social room. Mrs. Elsie Keys had charge of the program.

The title of the lesson was "Matches to Light a Candle." All members carried a lighted candle to form a cross. "The Old Rugged Cross" and "The Light of the World is Jesus" were sung by the group. Mrs. Byron Kee-secker offered a prayer. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Catherine Gattens, Mrs. Elsie Clark, and Mrs. Ruth Dye.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You sent a vase you wouldn't feel obliged to put flowers in it, himself "Sadder But Wiser" was an excellent example of the unfairness of the so-called "fair" sex.

When a man jilts a woman he is a base hound, a despicable cad, and a dirty bum besides. In some states courts consider her feelings to be so delicate as to be worth several thousands of dollars in bail suits.

On the other hand, if a female tramp (no editing necessary) jilts a man after he spends a number of hours and dollars wooing the phony broad, it's considered his tough luck and a big fat joke as well. No sympathy for the man. People die laughing and console him with such lines as "Oh, brother, you sure got taken for a ride!"

Of course YOU are so anti-male, Ann Landers, if I see this letter in print I'll eat my new straw hat. —MERLE MALE.

DEAR ANN: My husband's niece got married and we were not invited to the wedding. Three weeks later we received an announcement. My husband said, "We'll have to send them something nice."

I didn't feel they had a gift coming but to keep peace I bought a centerpiece with attached candlesticks. It cost $15.95 which is a lot of money to us.

Yesterday my mother-in-law phoned and said, "Jean received the centerpiece but no candles." I told her no candles came with the set. She snorted, "Who ever heard of sending an incomplete gift? You MUST buy her some nice candles and say the store forgot to send them out."

When I told my husband he said if his mother thinks we should send candles, to go ahead and send them. I'm boiling. He has agreed to do as you say. —D. S.

DEAR ANN: The centerpiece sounds like a lovely gift and there is no need to send candles. If you sent a vase you wouldn't feel obliged to put flowers in it, himself "Sadder But Wiser" was an excellent example of the unfairness of the so-called "fair" sex.

DEAR ANN: Women are so independent it's hard to know when to take the initiative these days. Will you please help us stumbling men by printing the answers to a few simple rules of etiquette? Thank you. —KNOTHEAD LEN

DEAR ANN: The answers are as follows:

1. The ones nearest the elevator door leave first—male or female. The man who thinks he's being courteous by letting the women in the rear leave first succeeds only in blocking the way.
2. A man always removes his glove. A woman never.
3. The lady follows the usher. If there's no usher the gentleman leads the way.
4. The man always alights first from bus or street car to assist the lady.
5. The woman tells her escort what she would like to eat and HE orders for both.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teenagers if you read ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
A ♠ A J 7 5 3 2 ♦ K 4 ♣ Q 6 3
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♠ Double Pass
2 ♥ Pass Pass 3 ♥ Pass
Pass Pass 3 ♥ Pass
What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner's raise to three hearts should not be construed as an effort to get to game. Remember that when you bid two hearts he was willing to subside, but only after the opponents contested at two spades was he willing to compete for the part score. When you failed to stand for the double of one spade partner was informed that your opening was based principally on a long suit but not high card values. You have, therefore, already fully described your hand.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, and as South you hold:
A ♠ K J 9 6 3 ♦ K J 7 2 ♣ A 9 3
East South West North
Pass 1 ♥ Double 3 ♥
Pass Pass 3 ♠ Pass
Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Partner's jump over the double indicates good heart support but not much in the way of defensive strength. If his hand contained high card values, he would have redoubled rather than jump to three hearts.

Q. 3—As dealer you hold:
A ♠ J 9 4 2 ♥ A K 8 3 ♦ J 9 ♣ A 10 3
What is your opening bid?

A.—While this is a minimum hand we would exercise the option to bid, first, because of the major suit holding, and secondly, because it might be difficult to enter the bidding at a later round. The recommended bid is one club, which provides an easy rebid over any response by partner. If you should open with one heart, an acute rebid problem would be presented if partner should respond with two diamonds.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
A ♠ Q 7 6 5 4 ♥ K J 9 3 ♦ Q J 2 ♣ 5
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♥ Pass Pass Double
Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠
What do you bid now?

A.—A bid of four spades is recommended. Inasmuch as partner raised after doubling, it becomes clear that this double was a sound one and not made merely for "protective purposes." You have a very fine hand under the circumstances.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
A ♠ K 2 ♥ K J 9 3 ♦ A J 6 4 ♣ K 3 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass
4 NT Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—First is must be settled that this is not to be interpreted as a Blackwood call. It is merely a plain common sense raise of the no trump. In this case you should bid six no trump. Partner has invited you to bid a slam if you have a maximum two no trump response. You have 15 points, which is as much as partner could expect.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
A ♠ J 6 5 4 3 2 ♥ A 4 ♦ 10 6 ♣ A J 5
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?
What do you bid now?

A.—Four spades. The combined partnership assets are ample to warrant assuming a game contract. Your hand is worth 12 points even without taking into account the values for the fifth and sixth spade now that the suit has been supported.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
A ♠ K Q 9 ♥ 5 2 ♦ K J ♣ 10 9 4 2

Two Killed, Five Injured In Crash

Brothers Die As Car Skids, Hits Another

One Youth Critical After Collision In Rain On Route 220

Two teen-age brothers from Triple Lakes were killed and five other persons were injured, one critically, in a two-car collision on U. S. Route 220 at Potomac Park yesterday afternoon.

The dead youths were identified by Maryland State Police as:

George Albert Capel Jr., 18, driver of one of the vehicles, who died of a fractured skull.

James Edward Capel, 17, a passenger in the front seat of his brother's car, who suffered a fractured skull and crushed chest.

State Police said both brothers died shortly after being admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland following the accident, which occurred at 2:45 p.m.

Injured in the crash were: Ricky McKenzie, 14, Route 5, Cumberland, another passenger in the Capel car, who was admitted to Sacred Heart in critical condition with a fractured skull and brain injuries.

William Isaac Capel, 9, brother to the two dead youths, who suffered lacerations of the forehead and face and a broken right arm. His condition is listed as "fair" at the hospital.

Mrs. Arlene Elizabeth Tichnell, 30, of 185 East Main Street, Elkton, Md., who sustained lacerations and bruises of the legs and arms. Her condition is reported as "good" at the hospital.

Edward Tichnell, two-month-old son of Mrs. Tichnell, who had multiple bruises and cuts of the face and head. The hospital lists him as "fair."

Sharon Tichnell, 6, daughter of Mrs. Tichnell, who has possible head injuries and cuts and bruises. Her condition also is "good."

Highway Blocked

State Police said the injured persons were taken to Sacred Heart Hospital by police and Astor ambulances and in private cars of nearby residents.

Trooper Willis E. Foreman investigated the fatal crash. He was assisted by Trooper K. W. Messmer and probationary trooper George Tye. Cpl. Charles H. DeWitt drove the police ambulance.

The accident occurred during a rainstorm and at the height of traffic on the highway with the changing of shifts at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company. The highway was partially blocked for over an hour with one-way traffic until the wrecked cars were removed.

Trooper Foreman said the crash occurred as the two-door sedan driven by George Capel and occupied by his brothers and the McKenzie youth was traveling south on U. S. 220 on an incline near the Amcelle plant.

Skids, Loses Control

The vehicle apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed, the state trooper said, and swerved to miss a small earth slide which heavy rains had caused to slip from a dirt bank. The driver lost control of his car and it skidded sideways on the wet highway into the second automobile, headed north toward Cumberland.

Walter Curry Tichnell, 39, of Elkton, was driving the north-bound vehicle. He told police he stopped when he saw the other automobile go out of control but the skidding car crashed into his vehicle.

Mr. Tichnell was unhurt, police said. His wife was sitting beside him in the front seat holding their two-month-old son. Their daughter Sharon, was riding in the back of the four-door sedan.

Trooper Foreman said the two dead youths apparently were sitting in the front seat of their car along with the McKenzie boy. Young Billy Capel was a passenger in the rear seat.

Police said the accident is believed to have been caused by speed too great for existing weather and road conditions. They are continuing their investigation.

The bodies of the Capel brothers are at the Kight Funeral Home here.

Returns To Home

Mrs. Marian C. Boyle, 531 Cumberland Street, has returned home from Sacred Heart Hospital, where she underwent surgery.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ansell, Wellersburg, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Seekamp, Corriganville, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Oates, Mt. Savage, a daughter Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Scott, 139 Humbird Street, a son Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Dennison, Springfield, W. Va., a son Friday night.

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ansell, Wellersburg, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Scott, 139 Humbird Street, a son Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Dennison, Springfield, W. Va., a son Friday night.

Crash Kills Two

State policemen direct traffic around two smashed automobiles which collided on U. S. 220 just north of the Celanese plant yesterday afternoon. Two brothers from Triple Lakes, riding in the dark car, were killed and another youth was badly injured.

A fourth boy in the car was hurt, and three members of an Elkton family, riding in the light-colored car, also were injured. A small dirt slide on the wet highway caused the dark car to swerve and skid into the other vehicle, police said.

McKee Is Named Head Of State Federation

J. Walter McKee, 651 Baker Street, was elected president of the Maryland Federation of Mens Bible Classes at the annual convention held here Saturday.

Mr. McKee has been a member of the federation for 12 years and has served as secretary of the Duke Memorial Bible Class here for 10 years.

George Tederick, 186 Thomas Street, was re-elected Western Maryland vice president.

They were among the new officers who were installed by Thomas Chatburn Jr., Rumford, R. I., national president of the federation.

The convention was held in Kingsley Methodist Church and featured addresses by Rev. James Elliott, pastor of Central Methodist Church, and Earl E. Manges, local attorney.

The next convention will be held May 6, 1961, in Frederick.

Mr. McKee told the delegates his chief aim during the coming year will be to complete the organization of men's Bible classes in Western Maryland.

Mental Health Canvass To Be Held Tonight

The Mental Health Bell Ringer Drive will be held in Allegheny County tonight from 7 to 9 o'clock to raise money for the Maryland Association for Mental Health.

In Cumberland, adult volunteers and members of the Order of the Rainbow for Girls will make house-to-house solicitations. In Westernport, the drive will be conducted by the Bruce Hi-Y Lonaconing, Midland and Barton, under Miss Susan Gleason; by Valley Tri-Hi-Y under Miss Peggy Sterbutzel; Frostburg, by Phi Omicron Delta Sorority under Mrs. Pat Heid, Beall Hi-Y under Thomas Blair, and Beall Tri-Hi-Y under Mrs. Maurice Treacy.

Valley and Bedford Road areas will be covered by the Fort Hill Delta Tri-Hi-Y under Hayden Dawson; Ellerslie by the Homemakers, Flintstone by the Homemakers; Bowling Green by the Homemakers and by the Young Adults of St. Matthew's United Church of Christ; Mexico Farms by the Methodist Youth Fellowship of Davis Memorial Church; Baltimore Pike areas by the Baltimore Pike Firettes; LaVale by Park Place Methodist Church; WSCS and the Fire Department auxiliary; Cresaptown, the senior girls of Cresaptown Methodist Church, and McCoole by the Boy Scouts.

Mr. Tichnell was unhurt, police said. His wife was sitting beside him in the front seat holding their two-month-old son. Their daughter Sharon, was riding in the back of the four-door sedan.

Trooper Foreman said the two dead youths apparently were sitting in the front seat of their car along with the McKenzie boy. Young Billy Capel was a passenger in the rear seat.

Police said the accident is believed to have been caused by speed too great for existing weather and road conditions. They are continuing their investigation.

The bodies of the Capel brothers are at the Kight Funeral Home here.

Ambulance Unit Being Readied

The Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company plans to have its ambulance service in operation within two weeks, according to Joseph Wenrich, president, and Louis Winters, fire chief.

The announcement was made yesterday after members of the company completed a course in resuscitation.

The class was part of a 10-hour course in first aid sponsored by the American Red Cross, with Louis Millholland, Cresaptown, as instructor.

A class in ambulance service procedure was taught last Friday by H. Lee Silcox.

Humphrey, Kennedy Tell Views Of W.Va. Primary

EDITOR'S NOTE: As the West Virginia Presidential preference primary campaign winds up, the two candidates outline for United Press International their views of the race.

By HUBERT H. HUMPHREY
(Written for UPI)

As we reach the windup of West Virginia's Democratic Presidential primary campaign, one thing is certain: The next President of the United States, whoever he may be, won't be able to forget, or neglect, West Virginia.

The nation's eyes have been turned to West Virginia.

I've developed a great respect and admiration for the friendly people of West Virginia, and I have firm faith in the state's future progress—if it is given the right leadership.

Mrs. Humphrey and I have been greeted courteously and cordially everywhere in West Virginia. We have had an opportunity to listen to the people, as well as talk to them, and to learn of their hopes, their needs.

West Virginians have a right to be proud of their state, for it has much to offer—great natural resources, skilled workmen, fine retail businesses, and vast industrial enterprises. It has been a privilege for me to be able to help tell West Virginia's story to the nation—and sound a call for action to make better use of West Virginia's economic potential.

I am satisfied to rest my case with the people of West Virginia, for I respect their good judgment. I have been encouraged by the warmth of the support I have found.

My support does not come principally from persons of position, rank, or wealth. Rather, it comes largely from people, who like myself, are of modest origin and limited financial means.

This in itself is one of the main reasons I am venturing to seek the nomination. I know from personal experience what it means to be the victim of depression, distress, and natural disaster—those unpredictable forces over which

By JOHN F. KENNEDY
(Written for UPI)

In no recent year has West Virginia played such a key role in a national election as it does this year.

What this state's voters do on Tuesday may well determine the course of the Democratic National Convention—and may well determine the identity of the next President of the United States.

The most important product of the West Virginia primary in my opinion has been to focus national attention on this state's problems—long neglected by the Republican administrations in Washington and Charleston.

For the first time in years, the Republican governor of this state met with the President of the United States to see what could be done for West Virginia.

But the important fact remains that little will be done for West Virginia unless a Democrat is elected—and I mean a Democrat who has been to West Virginia, met her people and come to understand her problems.

I have pledged to the people of this state that if elected to the Presidency the problems of West Virginia would be on the front of my desk, would be acted on promptly and vigorously.

Any program for West Virginia would include the 10 points which I stated in one of my early campaign speeches in Wayne. These would be an area redevelopment bill, the shifting of defense contracts to West Virginia, federal minimum standards for unemployment insurance, raising of the minimum wage from $1 to $1.25, passage of a program of medical care for the aged, the enactment of a coal research bill.

I believe that if I am successful in West Virginia, I will win the

Safety Check To Be Enlarged For Next Year

The success of Operation Safety Check, which ended Saturday, has assured a bigger and better program for next year, Robert O. Collins, general chairman, said last night.

Mr. Collins said 1,334 car and truck owners took advantage of free inspections offered by the Safe-Teen chapters of Cumberland and Frostburg, and their sponsors.

Safe-Teens hope to organize other chapters in the western end of Allegany County this summer. This would enable the committee to make the safety check a county-wide project next year.

Porter Trice, a representative of the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, visited the check lanes on Saturday to observe the work of the lane crews and to make a complete photographic record of the activities. He was favorably impressed with the records compiled at the various lanes and complimented the crews on their thoroughness and efficiency.

Commenting on the planning and on the cooperation of industry, business men, and the press and radio, Mr. Trice said this is the type of program and results that the Traffic Safety Commission has come to expect from Allegany County.

Mr. Collins said the general committee will meet soon to evaluate the 1960 program and to begin preliminary plans for the Safety Check for 1961.

Associated Charities Committee To Meet

The advisory committee of the board of directors of the Associated Charities will meet today at 3:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber at City Hall.

Douglas R. Bowie, president, will be in charge of the meeting.

District Legion Backs Anderson For State Post

Caucus Is Planned In Oakland July 10

Mountain District, American Legion, yesterday endorsed Fred H. Anderson, local attorney, as a candidate for judge advocate of the Department of Maryland American Legion.

He was backed for the state post as Legion posts and Auxiliary units held a district meeting at the home of Victory Post No. 155 in Westernport.

Mr. Anderson is a World War II veteran and is a past commander of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 here.

Charles Griffith, city, district commander, presided at the meeting.

John Matthews, state department commander, of Baltimore, headed a delegation of state officers.

Cites Membership

They included John W. Sloan, Baltimore, past department commander; Robert Koch, Baltimore, Junior League Baseball chairman; William Clay, Montgomery County, department legislative chairman; Fred Miller, Eastern Shore, executive committee, and Robert Wamsley, Baltimore, department senior vice commander.

Mr. Wamsley reported that membership is running 324 below last May 1 and urged all posts to step up their membership campaigns.

Mrs. Vivian McKenzie, Grantsville, district auxiliary president, reported a benefit dance given in Grantsville Saturday night was very successful financially.

Mountain District will hold its district caucus July 10 in Oakland, with Proctor Kildow Post as host to the meeting.

A district commander and five department executive committee members will be named, subject to approval of the department committee.

Plan Contest

Mountain District adopted a resolution of respect in the death of Samuel A. Graham, of Fort Cumberland Post, who died in March. The resolution, which will be forwarded to Mrs. Graham, cited that he was considered the father of the Child Welfare Commission of the Legion.

Mr. Miller, who is serving as chairman of the Department of Maryland convention in Baltimore July 20-23, reported that the drum corps competition will be held July 21 on Homewood Field of The Johns Hopkins University.

Attending were officials from six of the 12 Legion posts and nine auxiliary units.

County Bankers Will Attend Convention

Several Allegany County bankers plan to attend the convention of the Maryland Bankers Association May 20-24 at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington.

Already registered for the session are Charles J. Laughlin, cashier, and Joseph R. Whelan, director of the Citizens National Bank, Westernport; Joseph M. Naughton, president, Second National Bank, Cumberland; John L. Conway, cashier, Cumberland Savings Bank; Charles A. Piper, president, and Thomas J. McNamee, assistant vice president, Liberty Trust Company; Kenneth R. Malcolm, executive vice president, First National Bank, Barton.

Area Streams Leave Banks

Record Rain Causes Floods, Slides

A record 24-hour rainfall drenched the tri-state area yesterday, flooding low-lying fields, causing numerous rock slides along highways, clogging sewers and filling basements with water.

The Potomac River rose rapidly during the day and reached a height of 16.8 feet at the Wiley Ford river gauge by 9 p. m. With a thin drizzle of rain continuing last night the water rose more slowly, Robert R. Golden, local weather observer said.

The U. S. Corps of Engineers predicted the crest of the river would reach 19 or 20 feet about 1 a. m. Water was over the banks at Wiley Ford and rising about one-half foot per hour, Mr. Golden said.

Other streams throughout Western Maryland were out of their banks. U. S. Route 40 east of Cumberland had numerous places where water poured off hillsides over the roadway. Dirt slides caused one-lane traffic in some areas.

The State Roads Commission said seven crews were out in the county all day yesterday repairing washed-out areas and cleaning up debris and dirt on the highways.

Road Blocked By Slide

The worst dirt slide occurred on State Route 135 between McCoole and Westernport where nearly 50 yards of the highway was open to one-lane traffic only as crews cleaned up the water-soaked earth.

Smaller slides were reported in many other spots as the heavens poured 4.1 inches of rain into the area in less than 24 hours. Mr. Golden reported this as a record rainfall in a 24-hour period for May. It exceeds the normal amount of rain during the entire month, as May generally averages 3.39 inches of rain, he said.

Catch basins at the end of LeFevre Road overflowed yesterday and washed out driveways in front of the homes of David Kirk and Arley Twigg. Three-foot trenches were dug out by the cascading water, and debris poured onto Fayette Street, clogging sewers and drains.

Evitts Creek was out of its banks in some lower areas as were Fifteen-Mile Creek, Sideling and Town creeks.

Runoff water lay as deep as two inches on highways and some secondary roads were impassable.

Wills Creek rose rapidly and churned down the channel increasing rumber in an ever-splashing high along the channel as dirt, logs and debris were whipped along by the swiftly-moving water.

Police Kept Busy

City police were kept hopping most of the day with numerous complaints of flooded basements, clogged sewers and washed-out streets. In North End water pressure knocked off a manhole cover and flooded the street. Police were forced to guard the area to keep youngsters from falling into the sewer.

In many outlying districts, water cascaded off hillsides in the form of miniature waterfalls. Dirt and debris followed in the wake of the runoff.

At Ellerslie, water from Critchfield Creek and Wills Creek overflowed. Bottom lands were inundated and a small bridge and causeway were flooded. Many basements filled with water.

Area residents said last night the water was the highest since the 1936 flood and areas are being flooded which have not seen high water in over eight years.

Along Route 36 between Corriganville and Mt. Savage, Wills Creek and Jennings Run overflowed. Many farm fields were covered, and water from the hillsides, running off rapidly and in heavy streams, washed debris and gravel onto the road.

Construction equipment, left standing in Jennings Run, was nearly covered by the rushing water. The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, which has a large pumping station in the Ellerslie area, moved its equipment and motor vehicles to higher ground.

North of Corriganville a huge tract of lowland took on the appearance of a dense, water-logged swamp as Wills Creek spread across the area.

Trees Uprooted

In Locust Grove water crept near the top of the embankment in several places. Near the cut-off to Route 36 water neared unfinished dwellings. Several out-buildings in the community were washed away, trees were uprooted and the bridge road was awash.

Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company was called out by several Valley Road residents as water washed debris into storm sewers there. Fire Chief Leo C. Emerick said two men from the county roads department as well as the city street department assisted firemen.

He expressed the gratitude of his men for hot coffee and lunches provided by neighbors as the men spent over four hours pumping out basements. The chief also said property damage in the area was "considerable."

Many other areas in and around the city and county were damaged by high waters. At Bowling Green firemen pumped out flooded basements as the Potomac River swelled above flood level and bottom land was inundated.

Flood Control Crews Stand By During Alert

Warning System Is In Operation

Cumberland's flood warning system went into action yesterday as a late spring rain dumped more than 4.1 inches of water on Western Maryland.

C. R. Nuzum, coordinator and engineer for the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control system, said the flood control maintenance crew was called out late yesterday morning.

He said men were assigned to each of the pumping stations as the Corps of Engineers predicted streams would rise higher than in late March, when snow began to melt from neighboring mountains.

There were no indications last night that either Cumberland or Ridgeley would be affected by the high waters.

Mr. Nuzum said flood crews checked all flap gates to make sure they were open and would close as planned if the streams rose high enough. The check is needed to make sure a gate is not propped open, as this would allow water from the creek or river to enter the city's storm water drainage system.

Mr. Nuzum and Roy Maphis, maintenance foreman, conferred with Mayor Charles Fryer of Ridgeley, and that community's flood committee, which was keeping watch on conditions on the river.

The Potomac River was expected to reach about three feet above flood state at the Wiley Ford Bridge, and 9.8 feet of water was surging down Wills Creek at 9 p.m.

The level of both was far below the point when pumping stations could be placed into operation.

Engineering Department employees were manning the switchboard at City Hall to get the latest information on the progress of the streams.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech reported all was under control when he visited the flood warning center at City Hall early last night.

Ford Ave. Man Found Hanged

A 57-year-old Ford Avenue man was found hanged in a shed behind his residence last night. Police said John Carter Galliher, of 542 Ford Avenue, took his own life.

The man's body was discovered by his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Galliher, about 8 o'clock. She told Officer Clarence Valentine that she began looking for her husband when he failed to come to supper.

Mrs. Galliher said she visited a hospital where her father is ill after preparing the evening meal. When her husband did not come home she said she checked with neighbors who told her they remembered seeing him enter the shed. He had last been seen about noon, she said.

Mr. Galliher apparently tied a rope to a steel spike in the ceiling of the shed and knotted it about his neck. He then stepped off a chair, Officer Valentine reported.

Police said Mr. Galliher was employed at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bolt and forge shops. He was injured in February and recently returned to work.

The deputy county coroner's office investigated along with Officer Valentine.

Mr. Galliher's body is at Hafer's Funeral Home.

Young Adults' Officers

(back row) Mrs. Ethel Thompson, Davis Memorial Church, recreation director; Miss Phyllis Harclerode, Midland Church, director of worship; Mrs. Ruby Helmick, Mt. Savage Church, director of social action, and Vincent Thompson, LaVale Church, director of publicity. The election and installation took place at the spring dinner at Cresaptown church.

Spy Case Impact Weighed

Soviet Press Has Field Day Over Incident

Cartoons Rib U.S.; Details Of Pilot's Capture Disclosed

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet newspapers poured out fresh details Sunday on the capture of pilot Francis G. Powers and ribbed the United States in cartoons for the failure of his acknowledged intelligence flight over Soviet territory.

"Take-off and landing" was the title of a Pravda drawing on the case of the 30-year-old American flyer whose high altitude Lockheed U2 jet was downed by a rocket as it sped above the Urals a week ago.

Trial For Powers Indicated

Soviet readers were given other cartoons and first person stories of the May Day capture of Powers, announced by Premier Nikita Khrushchev Saturday along with a report that he has confessed he was on a spying mission.

Khrushchev—who is to meet with Western Big Three chiefs in the Paris summit conference a week from Monday, indicated Powers will be tried. He also said it might be well to hold a news conference on the case.

Workers on a state farm near Sverdlovsk, in the central Urals 900 miles east of Moscow, were reported to have made the capture. Soviet newspapers said they rushed to Powers' aid when he parachuted from his falling plane, but turned him over to officers when suspicions were aroused by his equipment.

Weapons, Map, Survival Kit

That equipment, by Soviet account, included a silencer pistol, a dagger, a Russian map, Soviet and foreign money, gold watches and women's gold rings. Powers also was reported carrying a survival kit containing extra clothing, a fishing net, pliers and a sawed-off knife.

"Our suspicions were more and more confirmed," said Vladimir Surin, a former sergeant. "An enemy was in front of us, an enemy cunning and impudent."

Surin's story was published by Komsomol Pravda, the Communist youth newspaper. His mother

South Africa's Louw Arouses British Storm

LONDON (AP) — South Africa's foreign minister, Eric Louw, got rough handling Sunday from editorial writers in British newspapers. He also got a going over from opposition papers in South Africa. Here and there he was compared to a Nazi diplomat.

Independent, Conservative and Cooperative - Labor newspapers were highly critical of Louw's news conference last week during which he said South Africa has no intention of changing its policy of racial segregation.

"London has not seen such a mixture of arrogance and bigotry since Ribbentrop's days as ambassador," said the Cooperative-Labor Reynolds News. "We expected nothing different, for it has been obvious for a long time past that this man is one of the most determined and ruthless racists in the South African government."

The Conservative Sunday Dispatch said the honeymoon inside the British Commonwealth is over. "Last week's press conference, at which Mr. Eric Louw revealed his country's racial bigotry in all its brutal ugliness, was the turning point. Up to then there had been a chance that the Commonwealth prime ministers would remain close friends."

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — English-language newspapers critical of the government charged Sunday that Foreign Minister Eric Louw did South Africa much damage by his uncompromising stand for racial segregation at the London Commonwealth prime ministers conference.

Liberals, who had still hoped for some easing of the government's apartheid policies, saw the chances dimmed further by Louw's remarks abroad and sharp speeches by nationalist ministers at home.

"Eric Louw is being deliberately crude," headlined the Sunday Times Express in an editorial commentary that also charged "Louw's acts in London remind one of nothing so much as the deliberate diplomatic crudities of Nazi diplomats just before World War II broke out."

Embarrassed Grandma Trapped In Gents' Room

WEST BROMWICH, England, play in a local cup match. In the interval she went to the powder room and by mistake walked into one reserved for gentlemen. She closed a door behind her and it jammed. She heard men talking outside the door and was too embarrassed to shout for help.

When her husband got home at 10 p.m. and found she wasn't there, he reported her missing. Police searched the stadium. Even the ladies' powder rooms were checked—but not the gents. Mrs. Cross had lost her voice crying out for help in the empty stadium.

Next morning, her husband organized a family search party. Her 26-year-old son Ray heard a faint cry for help as he looked through the stadium.

When the door to the cubicle was smashed open, Mrs. Cross was safe but tired, cold and very

Legislators Ask All Facts About Plane

Reaction Ranges From Concern To So-What Attitude

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. admission that an American spy plane flew into the Soviet Union brought reaction from Congress Sunday ranging from grave concern to a so-what attitude.

There were no ringing demands that Congress do anything except get more details behind closed doors. The view of some members was that it's best for Congress to keep quiet now in the face of a ticklish situation.

Some members, especially Democrats, expressed concern about what effect the affair might have on the East-West summit meeting scheduled to start May 16 in Paris.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he wants to know more about how Francis G. Powers, the captured 30-year-old pilot, happened to fly into the Soviet Union. He said he hopes all government agencies involved "will give a full disclosure of what took place."

Dirksen's View

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois took a different view. He said Saturday's State Department statement was candid in explaining what happened and "I don't think any issue can be taken with it."

"Dirksen, like others, said it is 'part of reality' that each nation watch out for its own security and keep an eye on any violations of that security. He reiterated, as the State Department had pointed out, that it is normal for all nations, including the Soviet Union, to carry on intelligence activity."

Sen. Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, took a similar view.

Red Subs Off U.S. Coasts

"We know that Russia has got spies all over the world," he said, adding: "The West can't afford to fall asleep and it hasn't fallen asleep."

Asserting that the Soviet Union has had submarines off the U. S. and South American coasts, Wiley asked: "What for? We know the Russians, as well as we, don't want a third World War."

The characterization of a grave situation was made by Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas.

"We must understand we are involved in a crisis in the making," he said.

Ike To Visit Rhee While In Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Eisenhower will pay a personal courtesy call on deposed President Syngman Rhee when he visits South Korea June 22, it was learned Sunday.

A revised schedule calls for Eisenhower to visit Rhee and Mrs. Rhee at Pear Blossom Villa, to which the Rhees moved after demonstrations forced the 85-year-old president to resign April 27.

Eisenhower will spend about eight hours in Korea, during which he is expected to confer for about 30 minutes with acting President Huh Chung, address the National Assembly if it has not dissolved itself for new national elections, visit the Rhees and fly to front line areas just north of Seoul for a visit with troops.

All the political signs pointed toward a close finish as Kennedy and Humphrey carried their popularity contest struggle into its final stages. The outcome is not binding on the states 25-vote convention delegation.

Kennedy insisted he is fighting an uphill battle in which he said he would be lucky to get as much as 45 per cent of Tuesday's vote.

Humphrey was confident of victory but made no claims about its size.

The rescue of two small pups by these Tampa, Fla., youngsters was a feature of "Be Kind To Animals Week." Bruce Garland (left), 11, and Danny Michaels, 9, crawled a city block through a sewer to save their pets. After search was abandoned boys heard puppies whining in sewer. The youths took immediate action to save their pets. (AP Photofax)

West Va. Demo Rivals Continue Bitter Exchange

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) called Sunday for an end to the personal abuse he said is being thrown at him in West Virginia's presidential primary campaign.

Kennedy fired back in a hot statement against the "gutter politics" charges leveled against him, his family and his aides Saturday by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), his opponent in Tuesday's Democratic primary.

"In 14 years of public life, in three campaigns in the House of Representatives and two for the United States Senate, I have never been subjected to such personal abuse," Kennedy said.

"I am puzzled that a candidate no observer thinks can be nominated by the Democratic party should indulge in such tactics. I am saddened that he has chosen this course for his campaign."

Humphrey, a Congregationalist, generally is regarded as having an edge over Kennedy, a Catholic, in this overwhelmingly Protestant state. Kennedy, however, has drilled at the contention that Humphrey has no chance for the nomination.

Humphrey's attack on the tactics of the Kennedy camp was renewed Sunday with a statement by his chief campaign advisor, James Rowe, that the time had come to "blow the whistle on junior." —Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., a Kennedy aide.

Roosevelt stirred up a storm of bitter controversy by saying Humphrey had asked for military service deferments in World War II, when Kennedy commanded a patrol boat sunk by the Japanese. Humphrey explained he was rejected for service because of a hernia condition.

Rebel Drive Smashed

ALGIERS (AP) — The French army announced Sunday it has smashed a major rebel effort to penetrate into Algeria from Morocco.

An army spokesman said 120 Algerian nationalist guerrillas were killed or captured south of Am Sebra on the border of the Sahara when they attempted to force the French defense line Saturday. Several hundred others apparently fled toward Morocco under heavy artillery and rocket fire.

Undetected Atomic Shots Held Possible For Several Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the new test program is to help develop a detection system. The detection systems can be created — it will be possible to explode "muffled" nuclear shots five times as powerful as the first atomic bombs without discovery.

This estimate came Sunday from the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee in a summary based on testimony of scientists during hearings last month.

The summary was made public a day after President Eisenhower announced a new series, possibly starting before the end of this year, of underground nuclear tests. One major purpose of the

Police Seek Girl Feared Abducted

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania State Police said Sunday night they were investigating the disappearance of a 17-year-old girl whose parents told them three young men forced her into an automobile and drove away.

Cpl. James A. Treas of the Gettysburg substation said an all-points bulletin has been sent out in connection with the disappearance Saturday of Jane Frances Cassatt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cassatt. The family lives three miles west of Gettysburg.

The girl's father gave this account of the disappearance to a newsman:

He and his wife left Jane Frances with her sister, Patricia, 7, while they went on a shopping trip to Gettysburg with another daughter, Audrey, 10.

When they returned, Patricia, in tears, told them Jane Frances was forced into a car by three boys less than 45 minutes before. She said the three drove up in the auto while Jane Frances was taking her for a walk near the house. Patricia said she thought she recognized one of the boys but could not identify him.

Cassatt said Jane Frances, a shoe factory worker, was wearing black pedal-pushers, a pink sweater, and a blue blouse. She is 5-2 and has brown hair and brown eyes.

Time Runs Out In Prosecution Of Nazi Crimes

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The deadline for prosecution of most Nazi crimes expired in half of West Germany Sunday, 15th anniversary of the Allied victory in Europe.

There was some confusion, much criticism and public assurance that most Nazi offenders had been brought to justice. There also was some feverish last-minute court activity.

In Hamburg, the city government said an investigation has been started into the Nazi background of 25 judges, including 15 still in office. Bremen authorities reported the arrest of the state claims officer, Hermann Lumm, suspected of having a part in the slaughter of Jews in the Soviet Ukraine in 1941. In the Ruhr city of Bochum, Heinrich Hamann, a former elite guard captain, was jailed under suspicion of ordering the shooting of 400 Polish Jews.

The statute of limitations for Nazi crimes is based on postwar Allied legislation. As a result, application of the time limit differs according to former zones of occupation. In the four states making up the British zone, the limit ran out Sunday. For three states in the former American zone, the period expires July 1. German officials said there is uncertainty as far as the French zone and Berlin are concerned.

The deadline covers all crimes except premeditated murder, on which the limit runs to 1965.

Truman Marks 76th Birthday

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (UPI) — Harry S. Truman was 76 years old Sunday.

The former President celebrated by showing the governor of New Jersey through the Truman Library, attending the First Baptist Church here and dining with his sister at home.

He was born May 8, 1884, at Lamar, Mo.

Gov. Robert B. Meyner, New Jersey, viewed the library with Truman Sunday morning. The governor has been called a dark horse candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Such Soviet moves might serve Moscow's propaganda purpose, it is acknowledged but would be almost certain to arouse an indignant storm of protest among Americans.

A frank admission by the State Department Saturday night that the plane was on a spy mission was clearly drafted with the hope that the Kremlin would play down further handling of the case lest it inflame East-West relations.

Eisenhower, Herter Hold Conference

Summit Fate Seen Hinging On Khrush Handling Of Incident

By JOHN SCALI
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, due to face Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev across the summit table a week from Monday, called in his secretary of state for an unscheduled Sunday conference.

Presumably the prime topic of their discussion was the foreign policy impact of the U. S. spy plane incident.

Eisenhower met with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter immediately on returning to the White House from a weekend trip to his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Herter was at the White House when the President arrived at 4:45 p. m. and remained with Eisenhower until 6. After he left, the White House said there would be no statement on their discussions.

Reporters learned of the meeting only after spotting Herter's automobile parked on the White House grounds. They confirmed it through the President's press secretary, James C. Hagerty.

Herter, who returned Friday from an Atlantic Pact Council meeting in Istanbul, spent most of Saturday in his State Department office supervising preparation of this country's admission that the American plane Khrushchev boasted of shooting down was indeed on an intelligence mission.

The White House conference came as top officials said Khrushchev could virtually wreck prospects for friendly talks at the summit if he continues to hammer at the incident.

Soviet Premier Holds Key

The Soviet leader's public behavior in the next few days, these officials said, will determine the mood in which Eisenhower will approach the long-awaited meeting in Paris next Monday.

A Republican congressional spokesman, Rep. William E. Miller of New York suggested that Eisenhower might refuse to attend the Big Four meeting if Khrushchev "makes a circus out of" the plane episode in the next few days.

Miller, chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, said the fate of the summit parley was at stake—"depending on how Mr. Khrushchev handles it (the plane incident)."

Further moves by Khrushchev to exploit the incident in spectacular fashion will convince Eisenhower that the Soviet leader is more interested in propaganda than in creating a serene atmosphere for discussion of critical world problems.

Accord Prospects Dimmed

Diplomatic authorities said the case already has dimmed what slim prospects there were that the top-level Big Four meeting could resolve the East-West deadlocks on the future of Berlin, Germany and disarmament.

Khrushchev has it within his power, they said, to torpedo the remaining chances completely unless he handles the followup in a subdued way.

Eisenhower and his top aides clearly would be deeply disturbed if, for example, Khrushchev put the captured American flyer on public display at a giant news conference or if he were put on public trial prior to the summit conference.

Such Soviet moves might serve Moscow's propaganda purpose, it is acknowledged but would be almost certain to arouse an indignant storm of protest among Americans.

Khrushchev's Coup Brings Deep Anxiety To Western Europe

U. S. Summit Position Believed Weakened

LONDON (AP) — West European officials appeared deeply disturbed Sunday by Nikita Khrushchev's success in exposing the intelligence activities of a U.S. jet plane over the Soviet Union.

There were widespread fears that the American position in the Paris summit conference next week has been badly weakened.

Allied officials privately expressed the view that President Eisenhower could hardly sit down with the Soviet Premier at the conference table in more embarrassing circumstances.

Two allies of the United States — Norway and Pakistan — denied knowledge of any American use of their territory for Francis G. Powers' flight over the U.S.S.R. last Sunday.

Khrushchev said the flight, halted by a Soviet rocket, was launched from the Pakistani city of Peshawar and that the landing was to have been made at Bodo, a northern Norwegian air base.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman in Karachi, Pakistan's capital, said official inquiries showed no such plane had been in Peshawar. Khrushchev's claim that Powers' Lockheed U2 had been at Peshawar three days was declared to be "without any foundation."

Pakistani Foreign Secretary Mohammed Ikramullah, who is now in London, said about the same time that if the allegation was true Pakistan would "lodge a strong protest with the government of the United States to insure that such a thing does not happen again."

In Oslo, Norway's Foreign Ministry repeated a denial of any knowledge of the alleged Bodo landing plan. A spokesman, Arne Haugland, said: "We know nothing of it." Maj. Gen. E. Tufte Johnsen, air force commander for Northern Norway, said no permission was given.

Foe Of Castro Says Shooting Attempt On Life

HAVANA (AP) — A Cuban political leader called a traitor by followers of Fidel Castro charged Sunday a shooting affray at Havana's International Airport was an attempt on his life.

Dr. Aureliano Sanchez Arango — whose welcome home Saturday from participation in a "congress of liberty and democracy" held in Maracay, Venezuela, was marred by airport rioting — made the accusations in a letter to two independent newspapers.

One of Sanchez Arango's followers was wounded by gunfire at the airport and several other persons also were hurt, two seriously enough to be hospitalized, Sanchez Arango, head of the Triple A organization which once operated clandestinely against Fulgencio Batista, said the affray "was obviously an attempt against my life."

Castro authorities were reported to have arrested a gunman they said shot Felipe Alonso, member of the Triple A executive board. No identification of the prisoner was given.

Sanchez Arango said his followers had alerted airport police and other Castro authorities to the presence of "a group of hostile armed men" at the airport but that despite the warning rioting was permitted to start.

Sanchez Arango and his followers actively oppose communism, and his organization and its supporters frequently are the target not only of the Communist party here but of Castro groups as well.

Quaker Group Asks Leader Get Job Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of Quakers petitioned Senate Republicans Sunday to give their leader back the Capitol Hill job he lost as a result of telling high school boys how to claim draft exemption.

A petition signed by more than 100 members of the Washington Young Friends of the Senate, led by William R. Martin, said the dismissal "is inconsistent with the guarantee of freedom of religion in the First Amendment."

Martin, 21, was a $5,400-a-year telephone boy for the Republicans in the Senate cloakroom.

The petition was sent to Vice President Richard M. Nixon and to GOP Sens. Clifford P. Case (N.J.), Jacob K. Javits (N.Y.), Hugh Scott (Pa.), Margaret Chase Smith (Maine) and John Sherman Cooper (Ky.).

The resolution said: "If the Democratic party is to win in 1960, it must nominate in Los Angeles a candidate whose record, whose convictions and whose fighting capacity as a liberal will offer the American people a sharp contrast to the Republican candidate."

An appendix left no doubt that Humphrey would be a welcome choice if he wins the Democratic nomination.

Johnson Shows Texas Strength

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson won a near sweep of Texas Democratic precinct conventions for the presidential nomination Saturday. The three top state candidates and the six congressmen who had opposition were nominated in the Democratic primary.

A majority of the precinct conventions adopted resolutions assuring that the senator would control the June 13 Texas Democratic Convention and the state delegation to the national convention.

The precinct conventions were Johnson's first opportunity to demonstrate his grass-roots support in his home state. His backing in rural areas is almost unanimous.

His strength "in a state that includes many diverse political views proves Lyndon Johnson has the vote-pulling capacity to become president," said Larry Blackmon, executive director of the senator's Texas forces.

Republicans held routine precinct conventions, many of which endorsed Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the presidential nomination.

Gov. Price Daniel, Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey won renomination. Daniel and Wilson for third terms and Ramsey for his 11th.

Car, Bus Crash; Soldier Killed

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — A Greyhound bus with 45 passengers aboard collided on the Pennsylvania Turnpike Sunday with an automobile carrying three soldiers. One of the soldiers was killed.

The other two soldiers were hospitalized as was one of the bus passengers. Twenty two on the bus were checked at a hospital.

State trooper Ronald Ramage said the driver of the car, Robert A. Guidaboni, 19, Middleboro, Mass., had fallen asleep at the wheel. The car veered across a median strip and hit the bus on its right front side as it turned to avoid an impact.

The bus also crossed the median strip and ran into a field. The door of the bus was jammed and most of the passengers were confined for an hour until some began complaining of pain. Rescue workers took them out a front window and through an emergency door that had been jammed.

Navy Survival Training Pays Off For Middle

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — When the light plane he was piloting stalled and crashed into Chesapeake Bay, Midshipman A. J. Shower Jr. knew exactly what to do.

He unstrapped his seat belt, kicked out the door of the submerged plane and floated to the surface.

Shower went through the dangerous episode Saturday and came out with only a slight scratch — thanks to survival lessons he had learned at the Naval Academy.

The 22-year-old Wisconsin midshipman was flying a light plane he rented at Lee Airport near here and brought the craft over the Naval Academy yacht Royono to take pictures.

After he made a turn, Shower said, the engine stalled and the plane plummeted into the water. The yacht crew picked him up and he was transferred to a Maryland Tidewater Fisheries patrol boat.

The junior middle had received instruction on the Navy's "dilettante" That is an aviation training device resembling a small roller coaster which tosses a midshipman into the Academy swimming pool, where he has to unstrap himself and float to the surface.

Dels. Walsh, See On Study Groups

BALTIMORE (AP) — Three members of the House of Delegates have been named to head study committees of the Legislative Council.

Del. William M. Houck (D-Frederick) will head a group to study use of funds for forests and parks; Del. Egbert L. Quinn (D-Somerset) will be chairman of one on fishery laws, and Del. Francis X. Gallagher (D-Balto 3rd) will direct a group to study illegal practice of law.

The Legislative Council made the appointments Saturday.

Among those on the fisheries committee is Del. William Walsh (D-Allegany).

Maryland Primary Rated Breather For Kennedy

By LOUIS PANOS

BALTIMORE (AP) — Win or lose in West Virginia, Sen. John F. Kennedy should find Maryland a welcome sight this week as the next stop in his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Unlike his bruising battle with Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.) in Tuesday's West Virginia primary, Kennedy has aroused only token opposition from Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) and two political unknowns in the May 17 Maryland race.

Even Morse concedes that the state's 24 nominating votes are practically wrapped up for Kennedy.

"I'm just running because Jack begged for some opposition, and I thought I'd accommodate him," Morse tells his Maryland audience. In a more serious vein he adds a hope that, by dramatizing the issues in his campaign, he will help liberalize the Democratic platform for November.

Kennedy, barely waiting for the last vote to be counted in West Virginia, will begin a four-day Maryland swing Wednesday.

He'll come into the state knowing that virtually every Democratic leader here has already lined up behind him.

A notable exception is Gov. Tawes, firmly in control of the party, who has remained silent. The 66-year-old governor will enter a hospital tomorrow for a physical check-up scheduled long before Kennedy decided to run in Maryland.

Although Tawes has expressed a wish that major candidates stay out of Maryland, aides expect him to be on hand Friday when the Kennedy campaign entourage visits Annapolis, the state capital. Informed sources say the governor probably will endorse Kennedy as his choice among those running in Maryland.

This would not bar a switch of support to another candidate after the Maryland delegation fulfills its legal commitment in the early balloting at the July nominating convention in Los Angeles.

Maryland law requires the delegation to vote for the winner of the primary as long as it believes he has a chance to win the nomination.

If the Kennedy express is derailed early in the convention, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) or Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) figures to pick up the Maryland votes.

Although Tawes has cleared many of Kennedy's county campaign chairmen appointments, he went out of his way last month to attend a dinner honoring Symington in Salisbury, and has been listening attentively to Johnson supporters in recent weeks.

Besides Kennedy and Morse, Maryland Democrats may vote for Chicago furniture man Lar Daly, Baltimore draftsman Andrew J. Easter, two perennial also rans who sometimes campaign in Uncle Sam costumes, or for an uncommitted delegation to the convention. Tawes has discouraged anti-Kennedy forces trying to promote votes for uncommitted delegation.

Besides the Democratic presidential nominee, the primary will determine Republican and Democratic candidates for the House of Representatives and delegates to the party state conventions.

The state conventions name delegates to the party national conventions.

Surprise Mock Battle Staged At Antietam

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Some 210 Civil War buffs were surprised Sunday by a realistic reenactment of one segment of the Battle of Antietam.

The spectacle was a surprise climax of the third annual national assembly of the Civil War Round Tables.

Delegates from 13 states were touring the battle area by bus when they came upon five Confederate and Union units off Bloody Lane.

Southern troops assaulted a hill held by Union infantry. The Northern forces fell back, then counterattacked. The mock battle was fought by the Sharpsburg Rifles and four "Living History" units organized by local enthusiasts.

The battle, arranged by the local Civil War Round Table, took place in a heavy rain.

All the participants were dressed in Civil War uniforms and fired Civil War muskets and cannons. The two sides used infantry, cavalry and artillery.

Ike Hears Home Called First Line Of Defense

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (UPI) — President Eisenhower attended church services this Mother's Day and heard the pastor describe the home as "America's first line of defense."

The Rev. Robert A. Macaskill told worshippers at the Gettysburg Presbyterian Church that the home is "the outpost of national security."

Two Students Die In Fiery Auto Crash

HAMILTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Two Colgate University students were killed Sunday when their car slammed into a garage and burst into flames.

State police said the victims, John H. Arscott, 19, of (35 Deep Dale Rd.) Wayne, Pa., and William Tangalos, 18, of (35 Broadhead Ave.) Jamestown, N.Y., were trapped in the blazing wreckage.

The crash occurred almost directly across the road from the volunteer fire department headquarters in this village, where Colgate is located.

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

Everyone's uncomfortable when you say the wrong thing, you most of all.

To Say The Right Thing Every Time

There are ways to avoid saying what's better left unsaid. Putting the wrong thing, and all the anguish that goes with it. Six rules guarantee safe conduct through any conversation, forestall awkward remarks. And they all add up to just this! Never let your conversation run away with your consideration.

1. Steer clear of unpleasant or highly emotional subjects. There's danger in every word of a prejudice-charged subject such as religion or politics unless you are positive of the sympathies of your listeners.

2. Don't start a subject with a critical comment or strong opinion. You're likely to step on somebody's toes unwittingly, and there's no easier way to alienate people than to attack what is dear to them.

3. Avoid all questions that pry into the privacy of another, and comment that is too personal. And careful there, that you don't give away someone else's business.

4. Respect opposite opinions. You can't be more wrong than to say "You're wrong" abruptly, or to be sarcastic. If you can't agree, say nothing or phrase disagreement with great tact. "I'm sure there's truth in what you say, but may I express an opinion?" Or change the subject, gently.

5. Think three times before you speak if there's any doubt of the effect of what you say. Twice may not be enough to prevent embarrassment, hurt, or antagonism. Break the habit of speech as a quick reaction to the unusual — it's too easy to blurt out.

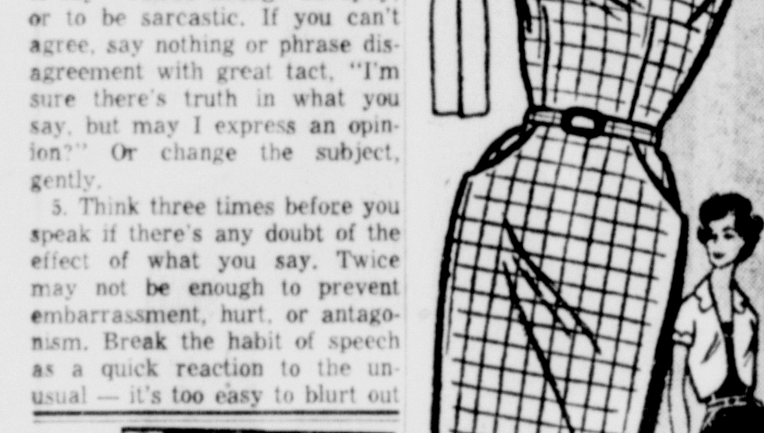

6. Don't try to sound as if you know all the answers. This eventually glazes the eye of even the most considerate listener. And if you hold forth on a subject you know little about, the other person just may turn out to be an authority.

Important But Confusing Event

The new trade talks in Paris may seem dull and complex to the uninitiated, but they have a very real meaning for Americans on several counts. The most important is the attempt to establish in the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) a new economic arm to meet the Communist economic challenge. Moreover, the hope of the U. S. government is to bridge the gap between the European Economic Community — the Common Market Six — and the European Free Trade Association (EFTA) — the Outer Seven.

The effect would be first to group the former Marshall Plan nations in a coordinated plan for economic development of economically less advanced nations. This would be done by furnishing capital on a cost-sharing basis, with the now prosperous Marshall Plan nations yoked with the United States, for "hard" and "soft" loans for industrial and agricultural improvements.

Further, the United States wants to avoid a potentially dangerous trade war between the two European blocs. And more than incidentally, the United States wants to maintain as free a market as possible for U. S. exports.

All three European communities, the Common Market, Euratom, and the Coal and Steel Community, will participate in the Paris talks on establishing the OECD. The EFTA Seven, as such, will not, although all its members will.

The hope is that the new economic grouping will come into existence by September 1, 1961. The OECD, with the United States and Canada as full members, would be the successor to the Organization for European Economic Cooperation (OEEC), which has 18 European members, and the U. S. and Canada as associates. Meantime, OEEC continues to function. The United States interest is demonstrated by the fact that W. Randolph Burgess, Ambassador to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, is one of the four "wise men" who drafted the plan. The new grouping could become the long-sought economic shield of NATO. It also could accomplish a lot toward protecting American jobs and, indeed, the general economy.

These Days

Useful Work

Rich men do not always know what to do with their money, particularly after they die. They work hard accumulating a fortune and then it often goes to encourage profligacy, waste, and appalling dissipation. The value of the Foundation is that it makes it possible for a rich person to put his money to use for some purpose other than for himself or his family.

Albert Lasker was an advertising man and industrialist who served his country ably in World War I. He amassed a fortune and desired to leave it for useful purposes. Mary Lasker, his widow, is a person of unusual perspicacity and social consciousness who devotes herself to good works in a very sensible manner.

Of particular value, I think, are the annual awards to medical journalists. This is a new and increasingly popular field of bringing news to the public. More and more medical copy is being published and the public is beginning to realize what is being done for it in this regard.

The two big killers are heart ailments and various cancers and with regard to both nothing can be more damaging than ignorance. Physicians and surgeons do what they can, but too often they are resisted by frightened patients, by those who so fear death that they stand in the way of continuing life. The advantage of knowledge is that it can, under favorable circumstances, eliminate this element of fear. There are some who must die in our present state of knowledge but there are surprisingly large numbers who can be helped and who can help themselves. The cured cancer numbers, for instance, are on the constant rise.

I have had a very thorough experience with both these killers and I must say that somehow I was never terrified by them. The word, cancer, neither frightened nor distressed me and when I was permitted to return home, I knew that I should be examined twice a year for about five years. These examinations are now as routine as going to a dentist for a cleaning. I have to see my heart man, Dr. O. Alan Rose, on stated occasions, and a delightful technician shows up every other Tuesday morning to stick a needle into my left arm to discover by blood chemistry whether I am sinning. (I use doctors' names purposely to break down a stupid tradition of anonymity.)

Perhaps this will go on for the rest of my life. It is a routine that interferes with nothing, that is gentle and at times even jolly, and there it is.

The value of the Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation awards to medical journalism is that it stimulates bringing everything out in the open. Alcoholics Anonymous discovered that talking about one's illnesses and weaknesses is a form of therapy. And presumably that is, to a degree, true about so many of our illnesses. Perhaps that is why elderly ladies enjoy sitting on hotel verandahs talking about their operations. It helps them get over their troubles.

I find when I use the word, cancer, a look comes into the listener's eye. It is as though I were a disembodied spirit, some ghostly creature returned from Sheol. But when I say that the best way to get over one's aches and pains is to have a cancer clipped out, the listener regards my levity as unseemly. The other day, I heard that Godfrey talk about his cancer and I thought that he took it altogether too seriously. One need only thank God and the doctors and the needle-stickers that one is still alive and kicking and to leave it at that.

The Albert and Mary Lasker Foundation is to be congratulated for promoting medical journalism. Ignorance is not bliss; it can be a frightful pain in all the wrong places. The more we know, the less we fear — unless we enjoy fear, please some do. Who shall deprive such a one of his pleasures? Mary Lasker looks like a fearless person who has discovered all the joys of giving and who gives not only generously but with unusual wisdom. Inherited accumulations of wealth, hoarded or wasted, seem out of place in our kind of a world. The distribution of such accumulations objectively can only result from mutual understanding of a husband and wife who recognize their social responsibility.

'Hmmm... Hmmm'

Pre-Election Polls And Their Interpretation

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Vice President Nixon says he was surprised by the big vote he got last Tuesday in the Indiana primaries and that it shows the unreliability of public-opinion polls.

The polls themselves are taken honestly and in accordance with scientific principles of sampling. What's really wrong is that the correct interpretation of polls has sometimes been neglected and that the public hasn't been told the true limitations of polling.

Thus, how many people know that neither Dr. Gallup nor any other pollster for that matter, has ever taken a state-by-state poll prior to a Presidential election? The reason is that it costs too much.

Also, no polling organization has ever made a poll by Congressional districts. This is also too expensive and takes too much time.

Yet before both Presidential and Congressional elections there have been many polls based on percentages of population taken as a whole across the country or by major regions.

Under our present electoral system, it wouldn't really matter if more persons voted Democratic in an election for the Presidency, as a Republican could still win a majority of the electoral votes. Thus, there is a preponderance of Democrats in the country as a whole because there are so few Republicans in the South. If merely a percentage of the population nationally is taken, a poll would always show a Democratic victory, but the pollsters introduce compensating factors based on various types of samples and on regional groupings. In the end, they come up with percentages from which, on the basis of past experience, they make estimates that generally are correct within a few points.

Sampling, therefore, is a mixture of prediction and correlation of current data with past statistics. The public, on the other hand, sometimes over-estimates these predictions. In Indiana, for instance, the Vice President Nixon says the advance polls showed Senator Kennedy as taking 55 to 60 per cent of the total vote. Actually, the Vice President received more votes than did the Massachusetts Senator, who got about 42 per cent of the total cast for all candidates.

This has led Mr. Nixon to say that he agrees with former President Truman that "the only poll that counts is the one that takes place on election day."

But the public doesn't want to wait till election day. It likes to talk about a coming election and to make guesses and perhaps bets. So the pollsters furnish a lot of significant information on which anybody can make his own estimate.

In England, one of the polling organizations went wrong last year in predicting that the Socialist-Laborites would get a much heavier vote than they did. The victory by the Conservatives was a surprise. What really happened? It is true there are more Socialist-Labor voters than Conservatives, but the pollsters neglected to find out accurately what proportion of those they polled intended to vote on election day. Also, included in the poll were many who were not eligible to vote due to residential or other requirements of law.

The same thing can happen in the United States this year. Apathy is a big factor in national elections. Many people who are not discontented with things as they are will fail to register or to vote. Polls taken without regard to whether a person is eligible or likely to vote are faulty.

There is also the factor of the "sample" polled. If it is equally divided between those who in 1956 voted Democratic and Republican, respectively, the question arises as to how they voted in 1952. Classifications by party or as "independents" are not conclusive. It is difficult to designate a voter by party even though he claims affiliation with it. Many who answer the pollsters didn't vote in the previous election but remember the candidate they liked. Many voters, moreover, tend to classify themselves for local purposes with one party, whereas they vote nationally for another. All this has to be taken into consideration in constructing the "sample."

Then there's the question of personality. It is still true that people express themselves as liking or disliking a particular candidate but, when they get in the voting booth, they may be influenced by party considerations or by a desire not to see a change or they will vote finally for a personality about whom, months before, their feelings had been unfavorable.

The pollsters cannot, in the nature of things, get to the bottom of each individual's reasons or be sure that even the things said in answer to the questions will be dominant in the voter's mind on election day. A safer rule of prediction is to base it on the amount of economic contentment or discontent that prevails in each state, rather than on personalities. The pocketbook motive counts far more than prejudice for or against a particular hair-cut or mustache and the "look" of a candidate.

Women Already Outnumber Men, Still Gaining

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

There are approximately 1 1/2 million more women than men in this country yet 200,000 more males than females die annually.

Half of all women over 65 are widows and if the trend continues, there won't be any men left. The fairer sex may be forced to do manual labor as in Russia. Who knows, the situation may bring us back to polygamy.

Women adapt themselves well to the stress of living. They are more health conscious and take better care of themselves when ill. This may explain why so many more women are seen in the physician's office but it must pay dividends in longevity.

In addition, women are less affected by emotional stress because they have safety valves. Some shed tears at the slightest rebuff whereas others dissipate their frustrations through "talk, talk, talk." Back fences, telephones, and bridge tables are busy places.

Women are more resistant to hardening of the arteries and tolerate high blood pressure much better than men do. The medical profession would give anything to show why. Many hypotheses have been advanced but none have proved a normal life expectancy, provided the diastolic pressure is not excessive.

Improvements in obstetrics have helped the gals to pass through the childbearing years safely. Even the cancers most common in women (breast and cervix) are more accessible and easier to recognize. Males are more likely to develop malignancies in the gastrointestinal tract or the lungs, which are more difficult to diagnose in the early stage.

So far the majority of women have managed to escape the rigors of the competitive world, the fury of mechanized travel, and the inhalation of irritating industrial fumes. Let's hope they can avoid the hazards of war and heavy occupations.

RESEARCH ON BALDNESS

J. B. writes: Is any research being done on male baldness in young men about 35? It would seem that the answer to hair rejuvenation should be rather easy for research men.

REPLY

What makes you think the answer is simple? Research on ways to save the hair or make it grow back never has yielded positive results. This type of baldness is hereditary and the die is cast as soon as conception occurs. Research on prevention takes us into the field of the geneticist who deals in germ cells and chromosomes. Perhaps we need more research on vanity, which appears to be the real trouble maker when a man starts to get bald.

SENSE OF SMELL

J. E. G. writes: In general, do women have a keener sense of smell than men?

REPLY

Some do and some don't. Much depends upon training, working environment, and the condition of the membranes of the nose. Dogs, buzzards, and other better animals have a much better sense of smell than have humans but I doubt if there is any difference between men and women.

DRIED OUT

R. F. C. writes: What causes dehydration after an operation?

REPLY

Sweating, loss of blood and other fluids, and going for many hours without eating or drinking. This is one reason why intravenous feedings are given after surgery.

MOVABLE UMBILICUS

J. F. writes: What causes my navel to move up and down when I breathe?

REPLY

This is not a unique accomplishment.

NIGHT NOISES

H. G. writes: One night I was awakened suddenly out of a sound sleep by a loud knocking in my head (sounded like a woodpecker). It stopped as suddenly as it started after what seemed to be about 5 seconds. Could you tell me the cause?

REPLY

Your guess is as good as mine since Woody never has returned. Sounds that awaken a person may stem from dreams, radiators, knocking at the door, animals in the attic, or head noises originating in the ears.

To the limit of space questions will be answered. Persons requiring will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Secretary Flemming Gets Needling About Ike's Health Insurance Plan

By Drew Pearson

Forand bill. "This bill you offer combines all the features of a subsidy for private insurance firms and a federal handout to policyholders. I'd like to get an insurance policy under these terms. Can I buy one?"

"No, Mr. Harrison," Flemming smiled. "These particular policies are not for sale."

Under questioning by Hale Boggs of Louisiana, Flemming said he wasn't sure Budget Director Maurice Stans approved of proposed grants to the states, ranging from one-third to two-thirds of state shares in the cost of hospital and medical insurance for the aged needy.

Doctors Agree?

"How about the American Medical Association?" needed Flemming. "Did the White House get AMA approval before coming to Congress?"

"I don't know how the AMA feels," commented Flemming. "You can't be sure of the position of some of these organizations from one day to the next."

Democrat Frank Karsten of Missouri said the governor of his state was concerned about Missouri's contribution to a federal-state health insurance program for old people.

"Under the sliding scale of federal grants to the states which you propose, how would Missouri fare?" inquired Karsten. "What would it cost a state like Missouri to participate in your proposed program?"

"We are now in the process of working up some statistics that will answer your question," replied Flemming.

"Well, I don't mind saying that I am growing a little weary about White House delays," snapped Karsten. "Especially when the President accuses us of delaying. Now Congress has to wait again while you do some more studying. You say you are working up statistics, but a lot of us in Congress are getting worked up, too, about the administration's failure to work out something we can agree on."

Hagerty Tells Truth

When Jim Hagerty announced on his behalf the President that his two new appointees to the Federal Power Commission didn't represent consumers or gas or oil interests or "anything else" the truth was certainly telling.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The birthplace of Christopher Columbus stands outside the old battlements of Genoa. It is a tiny, two-story house covered with ivy. It can't be more than 15 feet wide and, the day I stood before it, I realized why the kid had to go out and discover a new world: claustrophobia.

There are some misconceptions about the voyage. One is that Queen Isabella pawned her jewels to help her friend Chris. This is not true. What she said, in the presence of her husband, was that if no one else would help Columbus, she would leave the crown jewels to soak in Uncle Ben's Friendly Loan Company. Ferdinand took the hint and chucked $8,500 into the kitty.

The entire cost of the trip was about $24,000, the price of a ranch house. In a way, Chris failed because he was out to discover a shortcut to India, and what he discovered was a new hemisphere. No one could tell him that it wasn't India, so he named the natives Indians. This unnerved some of the tribes, like the Iroquois and Seminoles who, until that time, didn't know what they were.

The ships were the Nina, the Pinta and the Santa Maria. The first two were little caravels, 50 tons apiece, each manned by 18 men and a skipper, and each with enough kippa, pasta and hot peppers to keep everybody alert for a year. The Santa Maria was fully decked and 100 tons. The Pinzon brothers were captains of the three vessels. Columbus was the admiral.

They blasted out of Spain at a zippy four knots and headed west. Altogether there were 124 men on board and, after the first week, they became pretty sick of each other. They became pretty sick of the sea too, and Columbus couldn't have won a popularity contest if he had been alone in a phone booth.

Within two weeks, the lookouts began to yell "Tierra!" (land) every time a hunk of seaweed came up over the horizon. Through calm and storm, the Pinzon brothers kept the little fleet together and whiled away the hours calling each other names in Spanish pig Latin.

Some of the crew members were prisoners who had been promised their freedom for manning the boats. These, in the main, were Barcelona juvenile delinquents who spent their off hours below decks trying to invent switchblade knives.

About 2 a. m. on October 12, 1492, a lookout on the Pinzon named Rodrigo de Triana shouted "Tierra!" and somebody yelled back "Aw, shuddup!" in Castilian.

Land had truly been discovered. Columbus became excited and fired a cannon to signal the news to the other ships. They backed off, thinking that 33 days at sea had loosened some of his plush buttons. The Pinzon brothers

Take for instance Tom Donegan, who is to replace Commissioner William Connole, staunch champion of the consumer on the FPC.

Mr. Donegan spent 12 pedestrian years in the FBI, coming in with Roosevelt in 1933 and remaining there until the early part of Truman's administration in 1946. He then moved up to be special assistant to two Democratic attorneys general, Tom Clark and Howard McGrath.

At this time Donegan was a loyal Democrat. He almost had to be. Came the 1952 elections and Republican victory. Donegan then became an independent. As such he got along well with the new Republican Attorney General, Herbert Brownell. At one time Brownell considered him for a judgeship, finally threw him a bone in the form of appointment on the Subversive Activities Control Board.

To sum it up briefly, the new commissioner, who replaces the champion of the consumer, Donegan, is an undistinguished payroll rider, a political chameleon who has changed party allegiance at the drop of election returns. Jim Hagerty is certainly right. Donegan represents neither the consumer, gas nor oil nor anything else.

Note—Though the new Federal Power Commissioner has said: "I never had anything to do with utilities outside of paying my gas bill," he does know something about one form of power—horsepower. At one time he did investigation work for the Thoroughbred Racing Association.

Backstage

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., who's throwing those verbal stones at Senators Humphrey and Morse, should remember that parable about people who live in glass houses. It was FDR Jr. who once took a $50,000 fee as the paid agent for the most notorious dictator in the Western Hemisphere, Generalissimo Trujillo. It looked as if the TV cameraman who handled that Humphrey-Kennedy debate in West Virginia was a Kennedy man. He moved in for attractive close-ups on young Jack, kept Humphrey on fuzzy long shots. . . . When you consider that Indiana was once the stronghold of the Ku Klux Klan and that Eisenhower walked away with heavy majorities twice, Kennedy did amazingly well in the Hoosier state.

pointed to the sides of their heads and made rotary motions, but, at dawn, they saw a verdant island and the men came up on deck and hailed Columbus as a great explorer.

They landed on what was probably Watling Island in the Grand Bahamas group. Chris planted the flag of Ferdinand and Isabella and named the place San Salvador. The brown-skinned natives beat their little chests happily and made the pale strangers welcome. Two days later, Chris sailed around the island and one of the Pinzon brothers sailed the Santa Maria right up on a coral reef, which led to some loud conversation between him and the admiral.

The ship was abandoned and Columbus built a fort named La Navidad and put 44 men in it. Then he sailed for home and spread the word that he had found a short cut to India and took a lot of bows. He returned to the new world a year later and, where he had left the 44 Spaniards, he found only ashes and some happy little natives who looked as though they had picked up a little wealth.

Between voyages, honors were heaped on Columbus all over Europe. Once, at a banquet reputedly given by the Grand Cardinal of the Realm, some Spanish courtiers became jealous of Columbus and said that any Spanish sailor could have discovered the new world. Chris took an egg and asked the courtiers to make it stand on end. They tried and failed. Chris took the egg in silence, tapped the end of it until it cracked, and then stood it on end.

It wasn't much of a trick. Had he known anything about eggs, he could have shaken the egg until the yoke broke inside the shell, then stood it on end without cracking it. Still, you can't expect too much of a man who flunked geography.

144 CCC Golfers To Play In 38th Spring Tournament

First Round Matches End Next Sunday

Players Vie In Nine Flights; Wolfe To Defend Title

One hundred and forty-four members of the Cumberland Country Club will compete in the 38th spring handicap tournament which gets under way this week.

Joe Wolfe is the defending champion and tops the pairings in the championship flight. He defeated Orville W. Jackson, 1 up, in the 18 hole final last year.

There will be nine flights of 16 players each in play and all first round matches must be completed by Sunday, May 15. The top man listed in each match must contact his opponent to arrange the time they will meet.

The even hole tournament which began Saturday and was rained out yesterday will be continued next weekend.

A nine hole twilight handicap tournament will be staged on Friday, May 13.

Coch Corum Is Not Discouraged By Loss

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia University football coach Gene Corum said Sunday he was a "little disappointed" but certainly not discouraged by his Mountaineers' 21-14 loss to an Alumni team.

The Alumni, paced by such stars as Sam Huff, Joe Marchi and Freddy Wyant, scored two quick touchdowns near the end of the first half Saturday in the rain.

West Virginia's sophomore-dominated varsity never did recover and wound up with a minus 16 yards rushing, lost the slippery half five times on fumbles and had two of its passes intercepted.

Venetian Way, Derby Victor, To Run In Preakness May 21

By JOHN CHANDLER Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Venetian Way, with one-third of the triple crown safely stowed away after his brilliant Kentucky Derby victory, flies to Baltimore Tuesday for the Preakness May 21. But, he won't be alone.

At least four of the top contenders for the 86th running of the derby by Saturday at Churchill Downs intend to try Venetian Way again for size in the $150,000-added Preakness at old Pimlico.

Actually, there were no serious alibis about Venetian Way's 3 1/2 lengths victory over Bally Ache and 11 others on a damp track labeled "good" but gum-like, holding and slippery from Friday night's rains.

But other owners and trainers want to get a crack at Venetian Way on a dry, fast track. The impression was that the story might be different at Pimlico.

"Venetian Way hit a track he liked, and no one was going to beat him in the derby," said Bert Wheeler, trainer of C. V. Whitney's Tompion.

Tompion, the even-money favorite after victories in the Santa Anita Derby and the Blue Grass Stakes, finished fourth, barely nosing out Adele L. Rand's Bourbon Prince.

Isaac Blumberg's Venetian Way, said he plans to start the colt in the Preakness, and then go to New York for the $125,000-added Belmont Stakes June 11. The 1 1/4-mile derby was No. 1 in the triple crown for 3-year-olds.

The Preakness is a mile and three-sixteenths. While the Belmont is the tough mile and one-half route.

Heading for Pimlico in addition to Venetian Way, Tompion and Leonard Fruchtmann's Bally Ache are E. P. Taylor's Victoria Park and the Llangollen's Divine Comedy. Mrs. C. S. Hodge's Fighting Hodge, a California like Divine Comedy, also is a Preakness possibility. Both were out of the money Saturday.

Frederick High School, which plays host to the CVAL track and field meet Saturday, May 21, has won six consecutive meets to date.

Last week the Cadets topped the St. James Invitational by piling up 50 1/2 points. Second with 36 5/6 followed by Charles Town, St. James, South Hagerstown, Martinsburg and Berkeley Springs.

Prior to that meet, Frederick whipped Bel Air, Westminster and Northwest in a quadrangular affair and before that trimmed Bethesda-Chevy Chase, last year's state Class A champs.

KEYSER HIGH School can retain the baseball title in the Potomac Valley Conference if it wins its tenth and final game of the season with Paw Paw.

Southern High of Oakland is 4-0 now but can't qualify for the title even if it plays eight games and wins all of them.

The Garrett County school was uncertain as to whether it would field a baseball team this spring on account of the late start caused by the severe winter. Then Southern scheduled six games and the last we heard the Highlanders were trying to add two more.

To qualify for the PVC title a school must play eight games, that's home-and-home games with four teams, and the baseball schedules must be in the hands of the league secretary by April 15. Southern High, we are informed, notified the conference secretary April 25 that it had scheduled six games and hoped to book eight.

That was ten days after the deadline date agreed upon by the conference about six years ago.

This agreement came about after several schools had added football and basketball games after the seasons were under way and affected some of the schools that were in the running for championships. At that time it was vowed this would never happen again. Southern was not in the PVC at that time.

Naming of the meat, roll and mustard combination is credited to Tad Dorgan, better known as Tad, while covering a game at the Polo Grounds, he observed the sausages sputtering on a grill. The next morning in his sports page cartoon which appeared in papers from coast-to-coast, the Hot Dog was permanently named.

Tad Dorgan, who is said to have originated more sports slang than any other sports cartoonist or writer, was a brother of "Ike" Dorgan, who handled the affairs of Fay Keiser, Cumberland middleweight boxer when the native of Greenwich, Ohio, fought such prominent scrappers as Gene Tunney, Jeff Smith, Billy Shade, Young Bob Fitzsimmons, Young Stribling, Jimmy Slattery, Jack Reeves, Jimmy Darcy and a flock of others.

MAJOR John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh is marking his 29th year as baseball coach.

"Bobby" started baseball at Penn Avenue High School in 1932 and tutored teams there for five years. This is his 24th consecutive year as baseball mentor at Fort Hill.

A UNIONTOWN High School senior, 135-pound Joe Thomas has run the fastest mile in Pennsylvania and Ohio scholastic history this year.

He was clocked in 4:19 in a dual meet with Conellsville and turned in a 4:21 at the Mansfield (Ohio) relays.

TRAPSHOOTING, a sport that flourished around here until Tony Francis folded his tent at the Ridgely Road and Gun Club and moved elsewhere, is back on the Olympic Games agenda as far as the U.S. is concerned for the first time since 1924.

Tryouts for the U.S. will get under way at Clementon, N. J., June 11-12 and among the Marylanders expected to compete are Bob Smith, of Taneytown, and George Bratt, Baltimore, both of whom are well known in this section.

Thirty-six years ago organized trapshooters withdrew from Olympic consideration following a feud with Avery Brundage, long time president of the U. S. Olympic committee.

Brundage was incensed when the American team challenged the French to a match for a $500 purse—and won. Trapshooters, like bowlers, have long maintained an amateur can compete for money if he doesn't make his living at the sport.

American and international trapshooting differ.

In this country the traps are one to a pit, and on the level of the shooter's feet, throw clay targets 48 to 52 yards within a 44-degree angle.

In international competition there are 15 individual traps to pit, below foot level, and they throw targets 80 to 90 yards within a 42-degree angle.

The only range in this country that offers international type shooting is not open to the public and is located at Fort Benning, Ga., where final American tryouts will be held, July 29-31.

Americans who want to practice on international style grounds must go to Hamilton, Ont., or Vancouver, B. C.

Potomac Wins, 7-4, Bobcats Lose, 6-5

Potomac State College's baseball team regained winning form after a pair of losses to D. & E. and Frostburg State by beating Hagerstown Junior College Saturday by the score of 7-4 in the Hub City.

Bill Funkhouser won the 9-inning game for the Catamounts and registered his second win of the campaign. Baker was the loser. Each team collected eight hits.

At Frostburg, West Virginia University's freshmen defeated Frostburg State Teachers College by the score of 6-5.

Carl Donald went the distance for the losers, yielded six hits and fanned eleven. Backus held the Catamounts to four hits, two of which were credited to Gene Zumpano.

Elmer Winter, Bernard Harden Beagles Score

Cop Second Point Trial Of Season

Winter's Daisy, owned by Elmer Winter, Cresaptown, was adjudged the best of twelve hounds in the 13-inch class and Beeman's Tricie, owned by Bernard Harden, Frostburg, was the best among six entries in the 15-inch class Saturday in the second of a series of six point trials held by the Allegany Beagle Club on the Barton Dairy Farm, McClure highway.

Judges in the 13 inch class were William Rich, Davisville, Pa., and William Partlow, Cumberland. Risch and Elmer Winter judged the hounds in the 15 inch class.

The third in the series of point trials will be staged Sunday, May 29.

Summary:

13 INCH CLASS (12 Entries)

1. Winter's Daisy, Elmer Winter, Cresaptown.

2. Frost Place Betsy, John Armstrong, Triple Lakes.

3. Frost Place Senator, Chester Kinser, Cumberland.

4. Bradley's Susie, F. C. Diehl, Grantsville.

Next Best Qualified — Lee's Little Susie, Harley Lee, Cresaptown.

15 INCH CLASS (Six Entries)

1. Beeman's Tricie, Bernard Harden, Frostburg.

2. Opequon Sport, William Newman, Cumberland.

3. Pearl's Blackie, C. E. Marteney, Keyser.

Next Best Qualified—Stitcher's Scamp, Louis Sticher, Cumberland.

Snead Holds Lead In $50,000 Event

YORBA LINDA, Calif. (UPI) — Sam Snead took a firm grip on first place in the $50,000 Round Robin ABC All-Star Golf Sunday when he beat a five-under par 67 to head a 70 by Dr. Cary Middlecoff.

Combined with two previous 68s, Snead's round Sunday gave him a 54 hole total of 203 — 13 under par. His closest competitor with a day remaining in the play is Jimmy Demaret, who at the end of 36 holes is five-under.

The Baltimore Orioles' 22-year-old outstanding rookie pitching prospect, Chuck Estrada, credits the coaching on control he received as the most important factor in his rise to American League ranks.

"I used to be extremely wild. I was taught to start my motion at the waist rather than take a full windup with a lot of motion—to pump maybe once, then throw," he points out.

Jerry Barber Is Winner In Tourney Of Champions

Shoots Record 268, Wins By 4 Strokes And Earns $10,000

By HAL WOOD

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Little Jerry Barber, miracle man around the greens and grimly determined under pressure, won the rich Tournament of Champions Sunday with a record-smashing 268 for 72 holes as he blanketed the star-packed field by four strokes.

Looking such golfing greats as Arnold Palmer, Jay Hebert and Julius Boros straight in the eye in a down-the-stretch duel the tiny Barber not only held them off — but ran away from them.

Palmer Is Fifth Hebert, playing with Barber, finished in second place with 272, followed by Boros, 274; Don Whit, 275; Palmer, 276 and National Open champion Billy Casper, 276.

It was the greatest triumph in the career of the 44-year-old Barber. His biggest previous win was the All-American tourney in Chicago in 1954.

But in this one, whipping men twice his size and weight, Barber collected $10,000 for first place in his third try at the all-star event.

Barber has been noted as a great putter, but it was supposed to take a big man, like defending champion Mike Souchak, to win on the 7,073 yard course.

With perfect weather Jerry clipped seven strokes off the old course record, set by Canada's Stan Leonard in 1958.

Barber finished 20 strokes under par — and he picked most of them where he didn't figure to be in contention, on the long, par-five holes. On this course the par fives measure 520, 554, 524 and 501 yards.

Of the 17 par-fives he played Jerry birdied an amazing 13. Sunday's pressure-packed 67, on his 33-34, was one of his finest. And was at his best when the foes appeared to be ready to make a run at his head.

Every time Hebert, for instance, got a birdie, Jerry came right back with two in a row.

Barber was bubbling with joy after winning the biggest single purse of his career.

"I never won over $3,900 in one tournament before," he said.

"But I played real good. Do a 246-228-212-928 set Sunday, you know that I had 28 birdies. This time in the Masters' 10-year history, I've ever played on a course this better, 1.769 in the 1958 masters, tough."

Becker, 34, is competing in his third masters. He barely qualified knocked in long birdie putts from last year with a 1,624 total, which 15 and 14 feet. The others were included a 279 game. Then he lost from four feet or under.

Elimination finals.

Don Winger, 18, Dan Nuys, Calif., finished second in the qualifying with 1,745.

Low score to qualify was 1,607, and some of bowling's most revered names failed to make it. Among those banished were current world's invitational champion Don Carter of St. Louis, who shot 1,577, and all-star champion Harry Smith of St. Louis, who mustered 1,515.

Becker Tops ABC Masters

Fires Total 1,757 For Eight Games

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Ben Becker of Los Angeles led a field of 51 qualifiers into the finals of the American Bowling Congress Masters Tournament Sunday, firing a 1,757 total for eight games.

After an 829 series in the opening four-game qualifying series, Becker came back with a 246-228-212-928 set Sunday, you know that I had 28 birdies. This time in the Masters' 10-year history, I've ever played on a course this better, 1.769 in the 1958 masters, tough."

Blazers Prove Too Powerful In Track Meet

Win At Fort Hill 4th Time Six Years

Capturing first place in 11 of the 16 events, including a sweep of four relays, Montgomery Blair High School of Silver Spring, rolled up a total of 109 points to win the Fort Hill High School track and field meet Saturday at the local stadium.

It was the fourth time in the past six years that the Blazers, won the meet. The past two years they finished as runner-up to the Sentinels.

Fort Hill finished second with 52 markers, 37 points in the rear of the Montgomery count.

Allegany's Campers were third with 35 1/2 points followed by Martinsburg with 16 points and Beall with 7 1/2 tallies.

The Sentinels were credited with four firsts and two of those were capped by Fred Joyce, who set a new discus record of 149 feet, 3 1/4 inches. He also won the shot put.

Montgomery Blair hung up three of the four new meet records. They were 1:36 in the 880 relay, 3:36.8 in the mile relay and O'Reilly's broad jump of 22 feet, 2 inches.

Allegany's lone win was credited to Bill Claus who won the mile run in 4:47.2, a new Allegany High School record.

Montgomery Blair had a pair of "double" winners. But won the 100 yards dash and 440 yard run while O'Neill captured both the low and high hurdles.

Barber has been noted as a great putter, but it was supposed to take a big man, like defending champion Mike Souchak, to win on the 7,073 yard course.

However, fate was with the 130-pound club professional from Los Angeles.

With perfect weather Jerry clipped seven strokes off the old course record, set by Canada's Stan Leonard in 1958.

Barber finished 20 strokes under par — and he picked most of them where he didn't figure to be in contention, on the long, par-five holes. On this course the par fives measure 520, 554, 524 and 501 yards.

Of the 17 par-fives he played Jerry birdied an amazing 13. Sunday's pressure-packed 67, on his 33-34, was one of his finest. And was at his best when the foes appeared to be ready to make a run at his head.

Garbage Plan For Lonaconing Is Outlined

Council Favors Monthly Pay Idea

LONACONING — Meeting in special session, Mayor Robert D. Peebles, Councilmen Benjamin Evans Jr., Robert Grove and James Berry, and Town Attorney James S. Getty, discussed plans for a private contractor to haul garbage in Lonaconing. An agreement was entered into with Joseph I. McGregor and William J. Devlin, of Lonaconing, to haul garbage for the town on a three months trial basis. With service satisfaction the agreement can be made permanent.

The two men will learn the collection and dumping procedures in the next few weeks, traveling on the town's truck with the regular crew on Fridays to acquaint themselves with garbage collecting routes, and to plan with the families to receive $1 in advance for one month's collection per family.

The new garbage plan will be in effect starting Thursday evening, June 2, with the private contractors planning to collect Thursday evenings through early Friday mornings when traffic will not present problems in the collection at curbs.

The town's garbage dump will be completely in charge by the new contractors, McGregor and Devlin, who will be responsible for maintaining sanitary conditions and reducing fire hazards to a minimum. Those who do not subscribe to the family plan, $1 per month for collection at their homes, but wish to haul their own garbage to the dump will be charged 50¢ per three months and will be permitted at only designated times to use the town's dump on Jackson Mountain.

The hauling of garbage by the town of Lonaconing has helped to keep the town beautiful and clean and prevented dumping of refuse in Georges Creek which runs through the community. The mayor and council have adopted this new plan, hoping townspeople will continue to cooperate in garbage disposal.

The rate was set low purposely so every family can take advantage of the weekly collection. Mr. McGregor may be contacted by telephone, Homestead 3-2436, Jackson Street, Lonaconing, by anyone living in the town or in Charlestown, St. Mary's Terrace, Detmold, and outlying districts.

Eliminating fire hazards and keeping the dump as clean as possible will be the responsibility of the contractors. Just this week, Good Will Fire company received four fire alarms, to extinguish fires at the dumps. One call was Friday at 1:30 a. m.

Councilman Benjamin Zarger who had a slight heart attack and is hospitalized at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser, was not present for the special session.

This new plan will be presented at the Mayor and Council meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the council hall.

Progress Seen In Watershed Development

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — Glenn Baker, assistant state conservationist in charge of watersheds for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, reports that progress is being made in the watershed program, especially in the area included in the Potomac River basin.

He states that planning is progressing as rapidly as possible on Patterson's Creek in Mineral and Grant counties.

At New Creek and White's Run in Mineral County, plans for Dam No. 17 have been completed and are awaiting approval. As soon as the weather permits, Dam No. 16, which is 88 feet high, will be seeded.

On the South Fork of the Potomac in Pendleton and Hardy counties, the contract for Dam No. 10 has been let. Bids should be available soon for Dams No. 11 and No. 16. By summer, work will have started on six of the Virginia Federation of Republican Women's Clubs held in Bluefield, W. Va. last month. All interested persons are invited.

The Potomac Valley Soil Conservation District Board received a petition from Lunce Creek in Grant County for assistance in making plans for a watershed program.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your advice to the man who signed obligated to put flowers in it, himself "Sadder But Wiser" was an excellent example of the fairness of the so-called "fair" sex.

When a man jilts a woman he is a base hound, a despicable cad, and a dirty bum besides. In some states courts consider her feelings to be so delicate as to be worth several thousands of dollars in balm suits.

On the other hand, if a female tramp (no editing necessary) jilts a man after he spends X number of hours and dollars wooing the phony broad, it's considered his tough luck and a big fat joke as well. No sympathy for the man. People die laughing and console him with such lines as "Oh, brother, you sure got taken for a ride!"

Of course YOU are so anti-male, Ann Landers, if I see this letter in print I'll eat my new straw hat.

DEAR MERE: Start nibbling. Buster. And may I suggest you add a bit of sugar and cream? Tell yourself it's shredded wheat.

DEAR ANN: My husband's niece got married and we were not invited to the wedding. Three weeks later we received an announcement. My husband said, "We'll have to send them something nice."

I didn't feel they had a gift coming but to keep peace I bought a centerpiece with attached candlesticks. It cost $15.95 which is a lot of money to us.

Yesterday my mother-in-law phoned and said, "Jean received the centerpiece but no candles." I told her no candles came with the set. She snorted. "Who ever heard of sending an incomplete gift? You MUST buy her some nice candles and say the store forgot to send them out."

When I told my husband he said if his mother thinks we should send candles, to go ahead and send them. I'm boiling. He has agreed to do as you say.

DEAR D. S.: The centerpiece sounds like a lovely gift and there is no need to send candles. If You sent a vase you wouldn't feel obliged to put flowers in it, would you?

It's nonsense that a gift must be "complete." It's perfectly proper to give one or two pieces of silver or china, to help fill out a bride's set.

DEAR ANN: Women are so independent it's hard to know when to take the initiative these days. Will you please help us stumbling men by printing the answers to a few simple rules of etiquette? Thank you.

—KNOTHEAD LEM

1. Who gets out of an elevator first?
2. Does a man remove his glove to shake hands with a lady? Does she remove her gloves?
3. Who goes down the aisle first in a theater?
4. Who gets off the bus or street car first?
5. Who orders first in a restaurant?

Thank you.

—KNOTHEAD KENNY

DEAR KENNY: The answers are as follows:

1. The ones nearest the elevator door leave first—male or female. The man who thinks he's being courteous by letting the women in the rear leave first succeeds only in blocking the way.
2. A man always removes his glove. A woman never.
3. The lady follows the usher. If there's no usher the gentleman leads the way.
4. The man always alights first from bus or street car to assist the lady.
5. The woman tells her escort what she would like to eat and HE orders for both.

Are your parents too strict? You can benefit from the experiences of thousands of teen-agers if you read ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Live With Your Parents," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:
♠ A J 9 7 5 3 2 ♣ K 4 ♢ Q 6 3 ♣ 3
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ 1 ♠ Double Pass
2 ♠ Pass Pass 3 ♠ Pass
Pass Pass 3 ♠ Pass

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. Partner's raise to three hearts should be construed as an effort to get to game. Remember that when you bid two hearts he was willing to subside, but only after the opponents contested at two spades was he willing to compete for the part score. When you failed to stand for the double of one spade partner was informed that your opening was based principally on a long suit but not high card values. You have, therefore, already fully described your hand.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, and as South you hold:
♠ A K J 9 6 3 ♣ K J 7 2 ♢ A 9 3 ♣ 3
East South West North
Pass 1 ♠ Double 3 ♠ Pass
Pass Pass 3 ♠ Pass
Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Pass. Partner's jump over the double indicates good heart support but not much in the way of defensive strength. If his hand contained high card values, he would have redoubled rather than jump to three hearts.

Q. 3—As dealer you hold:
♠ J 9 4 2 ♣ A K 8 3 ♢ J 9 ♠ A 10 3
What is your opening bid?
A.—While this is a minimum hand we would exercise the option to bid first, because of the major suit holding, and secondly, because it might be difficult to enter the bidding at a later round. The recommended bid is one club, which provides an easy rebid over any response by partner. If you should open with one heart, an acute rebid problem would be presented if partner should respond with two diamonds.

Q. 4—As South you hold:
♠ Q 7 6 5 4 ♣ K J 9 3 ♢ Q J 2 ♣ 5
The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass Double
Pass 1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—A bid of four spades is recommended. Inasmuch as partner raised after doubling, it becomes clear that this double was a sound one and not made merely for "protective purposes." You have a very fine hand under the circumstances.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠ K 2 ♣ K J 9 3 ♢ A J 6 4 ♣ K 3 2
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 NT Pass
4 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—First is must be settled that this is not to be interpreted as a Blackwood call. It is merely a plain common sense raise of the no trump. In this case you should bid six no trump. Partner has invited you to bid a slam if you have a maximum two no trump response. You have 15 points, which is as much as partner could expect.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠ J 6 5 4 3 2 ♣ A 4 10 6 ♢ A J 3
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four spades. The combined partnership assets are ample to warrant assuming a game contract. Your hand is worth 12 points even without taking into account the values for the fifth and sixth spade now that the suit has been supported.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠ A K Q 9 ♣ 5 2 ♢ K J ♠ J 9 4 2

Milk Marketing Hearing Scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP) — A three-day hearing on operation of federal milk marketing orders in Iowa and Maryland has been scheduled by a house agriculture subcommittee.

The hearing, May 18-20, will be conducted by the dairy subcommittee headed by Rep. Lester R. Johnson (D-Wis). The hearing was requested by Reps. Merwin Coad (D-Iowa) and Thomas F. Johnson (D-Md.).

"A number of handlers and producers of milk have expressed to me a dissatisfaction with the north central Iowa milk marketing order," Coad said Friday.

Johnson said he requested an investigation into the voting methods and procedures used by the Agriculture Department to incorporate certain geographic areas under milk marketing control, particularly as applied to Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Ordinance Section Added By Council

The Mayor and Council has added a section to its "Motor Vehicle" ordinance making it unlawful for vehicles to block intersections and pedestrian crosswalks.

The amendment was approved at the suggestion of Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming who pointed out several serious intersection problems in cluding those at YMCA and at Liberty-Baltimore streets.

Fleming's report also noted the department's monthly report continues to give evidence of more rigid enforcement with Fleming noting 1,396 arrests in April and fines amounting to $4,497.50, believed to be the largest ever collected in a single month.

Fleming's report also noted the Fire Department was called out 58 times in April. Fire loss was described as minor.

Two Killed, Five Injured In Crash

Brothers Die As Car Skids, Hits Another

One Youth Critical After Collision In Rain On Route 220

Two teen-age brothers from Triple Lakes were killed and five other persons were injured, one critically, in a two-car collision on U. S. Route 220 at Potomac Park yesterday afternoon.

The dead youths were identified by Maryland State Police as:

George Albert Capel Jr., 18, driver of one of the vehicles, who died of a fractured skull.

James Edward Capel, 17, a passenger in the front seat of his brother's car, who suffered a fractured skull and crushed chest.

State Police said both brothers died shortly after being admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland following the accident, which occurred at 2:45 p.m.

Injured in the crash were: Ricky McKenzie, 14, Route 5, Cumberland, another passenger in the Capel car, who was admitted to Sacred Heart in critical condition with a fractured skull and brain injuries.

William Isaac Capel, 9, brother to the two dead youths, who suffered lacerations of the forehead and face and a broken right arm. His condition is listed as "fair" at the hospital.

Mrs. Arlene Elizabeth Tichnell, 30, of 185 East Main Street, Elkton, Md., who sustained lacerations and bruises of the legs and arms. Her condition is reported as "good" at the hospital.

Edward Tichnell, two-month-old son of Mrs. Tichnell, who had multiple bruises and cuts of the face and head. The hospital lists him as "fair."

Sharon Tichnell, 6, daughter of Mrs. Tichnell, who has possible head injuries and cuts and bruises. Her condition also is "good."

Highway Blocked

State Police said the injured persons were taken to Sacred Heart Hospital by police and Astor ambulances and in private cars of nearby residents.

Trooper Willis E. Foreman investigated the fatal crash. He was assisted by Trooper K. W. Messmer and probationary trooper George Tye. Cpl. Charles H. DeWitt drove the police ambulance.

The accident occurred during a rainstorm and at the height of traffic on the highway with the changing of shifts at the Amcelle plant of Celanese Fibers Company. The highway was partially blocked for over an hour with one-way traffic until the wrecked cars were removed.

Trooper Foreman said the crash occurred as the two-door sedan driven by George Capel and occupied by his brothers and the McKenzie youth was traveling south on U. S. 220 on an incline near the Amcelle plant.

Skids, Loses Control

The vehicle apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed, the state trooper said, and swerved to miss a small earth slide which heavy rains had caused to slip from a dirt bank. The driver lost control of his car and it skidded sideways on the wet highway into the second automobile, headed north toward Cumberland.

Walter Curry Tichnell, 39, of Elkton, was driving the north-bound vehicle. He told police he stopped when he saw the other automobile go out of control but the skidding car crashed into his vehicle.

Mr. Tichnell was unhurt, police said. His wife was sitting beside him in the front seat holding their two-month-old son. Their daughter Sharon, was riding in the back of the four-door sedan.

Trooper Foreman said the two dead youths apparently were sitting in the front seat of their car along with the McKenzie boy. Young Billy Capel was a passenger in the rear seat.

Police said the accident is believed to have been caused by speed too great for existing weather and road conditions. They are continuing their investigation.

The bodies of the Capel brothers are at the Knight Funeral Home here.

Births

Memorial Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ansell, Wellersburg, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron H. Seekamp, Corriganville, a son yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey E. Oates, Mt. Savage, a daughter Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Scott, 139 Humbird Street, a son Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Dennison, Springfield, W. Va., a son Friday night.

Returns To Home

Mrs. Marian C. Boyle, 531 Cumberland Street, has returned home from Sacred Heart Hospital, where she underwent surgery.

Crash Kills Two

State policemen direct traffic around two smashed automobiles which collided on U. S. 220 just north of the Celanese plant yesterday afternoon. Two brothers from Triple Lakes, riding in the dark car, were killed and another youth was badly injured.

A fourth boy in the car was hurt, and three members of an Elkton family, riding in the light-colored car, also were injured. A small dirt slide on the wet highway caused the dark car to swerve and skid into the other vehicle, police said.

McKee Is Named Head Of State Federation

J. Walter McKee, 651 Baker Street, was elected president of the Maryland Federation of Mens Bible Classes at the annual convention held here Saturday.

Mr. McKee has been a member of the federation for 12 years and has served as secretary of the Duke Memorial Bible Class here for 10 years.

George Tederick, 186 Thomas Street, was re-elected Western Maryland vice president.

They were among the new officers who were installed by Thomas Chatburn Jr., Rumford, R. I., national president of the federation.

The convention was held in Kingsley Methodist Church and featured addresses by Rev. James Elliott, pastor of Central Methodist Church, and Earl E. Manges, local attorney.

The next convention will be held May 6, 1961, in Frederick. Mr. McKee told the delegates his chief aim during the coming year will be to complete the organization of men's Bible classes in Western Maryland.

Mental Health Canvass To Be Held Tonight

The Mental Health Bell Ringer Drive will be held in Allegheny County tonight from 7 to 9 o'clock to raise money for the Maryland Association for Mental Health.

In Cumberland, adult volunteers and members of the Order of the Rainbow for Girls will make house-to-house solicitations. In Westernport, the drive will be conducted by the Bruce Hi-Y Lonaconing, Midland and Barton, under Miss Susan Gleason; by Valley Tri-Hi-Y under Miss Peggy Sterbutzel; Frostburg, by Phi Omicron Delta Sorority under Mrs. Pat Heid; Beall Hi-Y under Thomas Blair, and Beall Tri-Hi-Y under Mrs. Maurice Treacy.

Valley and Bedford Road areas will be covered by the Fort Hill Delta Tri-Hi-Y under Hayden Dawson; Ellerslie by the Homemakers; Flintstone by the Homemakers; Bowling Green by the Homemakers and the Young Adults of St. Matthew's United Church of Christ; Mexico Farms by the Methodist Youth Fellowship of Davis Memorial Church; Baltimore Pike areas by the Baltimore Pike Firettes; LaVale by Park Place Methodist Church; WSCS and the Fire Department auxiliary; Cresaptown Methodist Church, and McCoolle by the Boy Scouts.

A class in ambulance service procedure was taught last Friday by H. Lee Silcox.

Ambulance Unit Being Readied

The Cresaptown Volunteer Fire Company plans to have its ambulance service in operation within two weeks, according to Joseph Wenrich, president, and Louis Winters, fire chief.

The announcement was made yesterday after members of the company completed a course in resuscitation.

The class was part of a 10-hour course in first aid sponsored by the American Red Cross, with Louis Millholland, Cresaptown, as instructor.

A class in ambulance service procedure was taught last Friday by H. Lee Silcox.

Humphrey, Kennedy Tell Views Of W. Va. Primary

By HUBERT H. HUMPHREY
(Written for UPI)

As we reach the windup of West Virginia's Democratic Presidential primary campaign, one thing is certain: The next President of the United States, whoever he may be, won't be able to forget, or neglect, West Virginia.

The nation's eyes have been turned to West Virginia.

I've developed a great respect and admiration for the friendly people of West Virginia, and I have firm faith in the state's future progress—if it is given the right leadership.

Mrs. Humphrey and I have been greeted courteously and cordially everywhere in West Virginia. We have had an opportunity to listen to the people, as well as talk to them, and to learn of their hopes, their needs.

West Virginians have a right to be proud of their state, for it has much to offer—great natural resources, skilled workmen, fine retail businesses, and vast industrial enterprises. It has been a privilege for me to be able to help tell West Virginia's story to the nation—and sound a call for action to make better use of West Virginia's economic potential.

I am satisfied to rest my case with the people of West Virginia, for I respect their good judgment. I have been encouraged by the warmth of the support I have found.

My support does not come principally from persons of position, rank, or wealth. Rather, it comes largely from people, who like myself, are of modest origin and limited financial means.

This in itself is one of the main reasons I am venturing to seek the nomination. I know from personal experience what it means to be the victim of depression, distress, and natural disaster—those unpredictable forces over which

(Written for UPI)

In no recent year has West Virginia played such a key role in a national election as it does this year.

What this state's voters do on Tuesday may well determine the course of the Democratic National Convention—and may well determine the identity of the next President of the United States.

In my opinion if West Virginia is to move forward that new President must be a Democrat.

The most important product of the West Virginia primary in my opinion has been to focus national attention on this state's problems—long neglected by the Republican administrations in Washington and Charleston.

For the first time in years, the Republican governor of this state met with the President of the United States to see what could be done for West Virginia.

But the important fact remains that little will be done for West Virginia unless a Democrat is elected—and I mean a Democrat who has been to West Virginia, met her people and come to understand her problems.

I have pledged to the people of this state that if elected to the Presidency the problems of West Virginia would be on the front of my desk, would be acted on promptly and vigorously.

Any program for West Virginia would include the 10 points which I stated in one of my early campaign speeches in Wayne. These would be an area redevelopment bill, the shifting of defense contracts to West Virginia, federal minimum standards for unemployment insurance, raising of the minimum wage from $1 to $1.25, passage of a program of medical care for the aged, the enactment of a coal research bill.

I believe that if I am successful in West Virginia, I will win the

(back row) Mrs. Ethel Thompson, Davis Memorial Church, recreation director; Miss Phyllis Harclerode, Midland Church, director of worship; Mrs. Ruby Helmick, Mt. Savage Church, director of social action, and Vincent Thompson, LaVale Church, director of publicity. The election and installation took place at the spring dinner at Cresaptown church.

District Legion Backs Anderson For State Post

Caucus Is Planned In Oakland July 10

Mountain District, American Legion, yesterday endorsed Fred H. Anderson, local attorney, as a candidate for judge advocate of the Department of Maryland American Legion.

He was backed for the state post as Legion posts and Auxiliary units held a district meeting at the home of Victory Post No. 155 in Westernport.

Mr. Anderson is a World War II veteran and is a past commander of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 here.

Charles Griffith, city, district commander, presided at the meeting.

John Matthews, state department commander, of Baltimore, headed a delegation of state officers.

Cites Membership

They included John W. Sloan, Baltimore, past department commander; Robert Koch, Baltimore, Junior League Baseball chairman; William Clay, Montgomery County, department legislative chairman; Fred Miller, Eastern Shore, executive committee, and Robert Wamsley, Baltimore, department senior vice commander.

Mr. Wamsley reported that membership is running 324 below last May 1 and urged all posts to step up their membership campaigns.

Mrs. Vivian McKenzie, Grantsville, district auxiliary president, reported a benefit dance given in Grantsville Saturday night was very successful financially.

Mountain District will hold its district caucus July 10 in Oakland, with Proctor Kildow Post as host to the meeting.

A district commander and five department executive committee members will be named, subject to approval of the department committee.

Plan Contest

Mountain District adopted a resolution of respect in the death of Samuel A. Graham, of Fort Cumberland Post, who died in March. The resolution, which will be forwarded to Mrs. Graham, cited that he was considered the father of the Child Welfare Commission of the Legion.

Mr. Miller, who is serving as chairman of the Department of Maryland convention in Baltimore July 20-23, reported that the drum corps competition will be held July 21 on Homewood Field of The Johns Hopkins University.

Attending were officials from nine of the 12 Legion posts and six auxiliary units.

County Bankers Will Attend Convention

Already registered for the session are Charles J. Laughlin, cashier, and Joseph R. Whelan, director of the Citizens National Bank, Westernport; Joseph M. Naughton, president, Second National Bank, Cumberland; John L. Conway, cashier, Cumberland Savings Bank; Charles A. Piper, president, and Thomas J. McNamee, assistant vice president, Liberty Trust Company; Kenneth R. Malcolm, executive vice president, First National Bank, Barton.

The advisory committee of the board of directors of the Associated Charities will meet today at 3:30 p.m. in the Council Chamber at City Hall.

Douglas R. Bowie, president, will be in charge of the meeting.

Area Streams Leave Banks

Record Rain Causes Floods, Slides

A record 24-hour rainfall drenched the tri-state area yesterday, flooding low-lying fields, causing numerous rock slides along highways, clogging sewers and filling basements with water.

The Potomac River rose rapidly during the day and reached a height of 16.8 feet at the Wiley Ford river gauge by 9 p. m. With a thin drizzle of rain continuing last night the water rose more slowly, Robert R. Golden, local weather observer said.

The U. S. Corps of Engineers predicted the crest of the river would reach 19 or 20 feet about 1 a. m. Water was over the banks at Wiley Ford and rising about one-half foot per hour, Mr. Golden said.

Other streams throughout Western Maryland were out of their banks. U. S. Route 40 east of Cumberland had numerous places where water poured off hillsides over the roadway. Dirt slides caused one-lane traffic in some areas.

The State Roads Commission said seven crews were out in the county all day yesterday repairing washed-out areas and cleaning up debris and dirt on the highways.

Road Blocked By Slide

The worst dirt slide occurred on State Route 135 between McCoolle and Westernport where nearly 50 yards of the highway was open to one-lane traffic only as crews cleaned up the water-soaked earth.

Smaller slides were reported in many other spots as the heavens poured 4.1 inches of rain into the area in less than 24 hours. Mr. Golden reported this as a record rainfall in a 24-hour period for May. It exceeds the normal amount of rain during the entire month, as May generally averages 3.39 inches of rain, he said.

Catch basins at the end of LeFevre Road overflowed yesterday and washed out driveways in front of the homes of David Kirk and Arley Twigg. Three-foot trenches were dug out by the cascading water, and debris poured into Fayette Street, clogging sewers and drains.

Evitts Creek was out of its banks in some lower areas as were Fifteen-Mile Creek, Sideling and Town creeks.

Runoff water lay as deep as two inches on highways and some secondary roads were impassable.

Wills Creek rose rapidly and churned down the channel through Cumberland in an ever-increasing roar of sound. Waves splashed high along the channel as dirt, logs and debris were whipped along by the swiftly-moving water.

Police Kept Busy

City police were kept hopping most of the day with numerous complaints of flooded basements, clogged sewers and washed-out streets. In North End water pressure knocked off a manhole cover and flooded the street. Police were forced to guard the area to keep youngsters from falling into the sewer.

In many outlying districts, water cascaded off hillsides in the form of miniature waterfalls. Dirt and debris followed in the wake of the runoff.

At Ellerslie, water from Critchfield Creek and Wills Creek overflowed. Bottom lands were inundated and a small bridge and causeway were flooded. Many basements filled with water.

Area residents said last night the water was the highest since the 1936 flood and areas are being flooded which have not seen high water in over eight years.

Along Route 36 between Corriganville and Mt. Savage, Wills Creek and Jennings Run overflowed. Many farm fields were covered, and water from the hillsides, running off rapidly and in heavy streams, washed debris and gravel onto the road.

Construction equipment, 1 1/2 feet standing in Jennings Run, was nearly covered by the rushing water. The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company, which has a large pumping station in the Ellerslie area, moved its equipment and motor vehicles to higher ground.

North of Corriganville a huge tract of lowland took on the appearance of a dense, water-logged swamp as Wills Creek spread across the area.

Trees Uprooted

In Locust Grove water crept near the top of the embankment in several places. Near the cut-off to Route 36 water neared unfinished dwellings. Several out-buildings in the community were washed away, trees were uprooted and the bridge road was awash.

Bowman's Addition Volunteer Fire Company was called out by several Valley Road residents as water washed debris into storm sewers there. Fire Chief Leo C. Emerick said two men from the county roads department as well as the city street department assisted firemen.

He expressed the gratitude of his men for hot coffee and lunches provided by neighbors as the men spent over four hours pumping out basements. The chief also said property damage in the area was "considerable."

Many other areas in and around the city and county were damaged by high waters. At Bowling Green firemen pumped out flooded basements as the Potomac River swelled above flood level and bottom land was inundated.

Flood Control Crews Stand By During Alert

Warning System Is In Operation

Cumberland's flood warning system went into action yesterday as a late spring rain dumped more than 4.1 inches of water on Western Maryland.

C. R. Nuzum, coordinator and engineer for the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control system, said the flood control maintenance crew was called out late yesterday morning.

He said men were assigned to each of the pumping stations as the Corps of Engineers predicted streams would rise higher than in late March, when snow began to melt from neighboring mountains.

There were no indications last night that either Cumberland or Ridgeley would be affected by the high waters.

Mr. Nuzum said flood crews checked all flap gates to make sure they were open and would close as planned if the streams rose high enough. The check is needed to make sure a gate is not propped open, as this would allow water from the creek or river to enter the city's storm water drainage system.

Mr. Nuzum and Roy Maphis, maintenance foreman, conferred with Mayor Charles Fryer of Ridgeley, and that community's flood committee, which was keeping watch on conditions on the river.

The Potomac River was expected to reach about three feet above flood state at the Wiley Ford Bridge, and 9.8 feet of water was surging down Wills Creek at 9 p.m.

The level of both was far below the point when pumping stations could be placed into operation.

Engineering Department employees were manning the switchboard at City Hall to get the latest information on the progress of the streams.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech reported all was under control when he visited the flood warning center at City Hall early last night.

Ford Ave. Man Found Hanged

A 57-year-old Ford Avenue man was found hanged in a shed behind his residence last night. Police said John Carter Gallier of 542 Ford Avenue, took his own life.

The man's body was discovered by his wife, Mrs. Evelyn Gallier, about 8 o'clock. She told Officer Clarence Valentine that she began looking for her husband when he failed to come to supper.

Mrs. Gallier said she visited a hospital where her father is ill after preparing the evening meal. When her husband did not come home she said she checked with neighbors who told her they remembered seeing him enter the shed. He had last been seen about noon, she said.

Mr. Gallier apparently tied a rope to a steel spike in the ceiling of the shed and knotted it about his neck. He then stepped off a chair, Officer Valentine reported.

Police said Mr. Gallier was employed at the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bolt and forge shops. He was injured in February and recently returned to work.

The deputy county coroner's office investigated along with Officer Valentine.

Mr. Gallier's body is at Hafer's Funeral Home.
